FEAR LABOR WAR IF PARLEY FAILS

SKINNY KIBBLES

Around And About Town

With C. F. SKIRVIN

I seldom come away from one of those last tribute services but what I am convinced the human race is remiss in its expression of appreciation to the living. We become so routine in our daily life we accept favors and service from friends and officials which often cost them additional labor, and many times personal sacrifice. Then when it is too late to clasp the hand of our friends and voice our gratitude we seek expression from nature and lay a wreath at the tomb. A rose to the living is of incomparable value to the sumptuous flora at the tomb.

And then there was the traveling salesman who inquired of the man who answered the door call if he had a refrigerator in the house. In a low tone and meek manner he said: "Son, I married one." No sale.

Mr. Eckles has pepped up the bus service along my street, and while he runs 'em offener I waited later to get down town. That wasn't his fault. I wasn't up-dated to the new schedule. Hit him right in the eye, the next morning, and another surprise was in store for me. Instead of unloading at the Security First National bank corner the driver high-tails Main street, swings the chariot on French and says get off at Leonard Hurst's corner. And inasmuch as a good looking fellow got off—so did I.

"Oh, mama, look," said a little lad to his mother, "some one shot an arrow through the window." And it looked that way. It was an optical illusion. Part of the arrow was on the inside of the display window and the other part on the outside, but the skillful decorator put up a good piece of deception. It was just a little advertising stunt which Earl Gray used to attract attention to a special sale.

Main street is getting a facial. The pavement physiognomist is removing the rough spots, and filling in the low places, so that the appearance will be more beautiful and the riding better. I'll bet when City Engineer McBride's boys get through with the work that Sinclair Lewis wouldn't know "Main Street."

Are we taking life too seriously? I notice so many people, some of them in their teens, going along the street talking to themselves. I do that sometimes, but I'm not so young as I used to be, and then I tell a lot of fellows by that method what I think of them. It's much safer. Knew an able attorney who tried his lawsuits on the street and he won 'em there when sometimes he lost them in court. But you can do a lot of good constructive thinking going along the pavement, and when you move your lips, that helps too.

Tell me, is this fellow dead or alive? "He would have died if he hadn't cut his leg off."

More trouble for the etiquette editor. Married woman takes a "sock" at husband but what are we going to do about that old chivalric theory that no gentleman would hit a lady? And then the reporter wants to know if hubby should "hit her back." I haven't consulted Mary Stoddard but it would be my opinion that with all of the time and money spent on facial attraction that if you are going to hit her at all, by all means, "hit her back."

"Nice morning," said the preacher, and I agreed and said thank God for it. I was afraid he might have forgotten it.

Hostess, who was late getting an angel cake from the bakery, phoned in and asked if they couldn't wing it right away. She wanted one of those lighter than air deliveries.

George Jeffrey is home and can get his souvenir cards to me now by personal delivery. It will cut (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

San Clemente May Get $125,000 Bible College

AWARDING OF CONTRACT IS REPORTED

Project Admitted By Long Beach Woman

Telephone wires hummed between San Clemente, Santa Ana, Long Beach and Los Angeles today as Southland newspapers reporters scurried to get facts about a $125,000 building rumor at the Spanish village.

Out of the flurry of conflicting reports, brewing for the past week, came a statement from Mrs. Redfern of Long Beach that she plans establishment of a "School of applied Metaphysics" at San Clemente and that a building will be erected soon there to house students of the religion.

PLANS GUARDED
L. M. Strang, former superintendent of public works at San Clemente, was reported to have signed a contract with Mrs. Redfern, providing for construction of a $125,000, three-story stucco building near the social clubhouse to house 500 students.

Secrecy had veiled plans for the project for the past few weeks. The news was to have been released next week in the San Clemente weekly newspaper, it was understood.

Mrs. Redfern, contacted by The Journal, at first tried to divulge any information, saying it would be "released in the proper manner" later.

An hour later, however, she telephoned back and admitted the school was to be established. She (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

EDITOR OF SATURDAY POST DIES

PHILADELPHIA. (AP)—George Horace Lorimer, editor who guided the development of the Saturday Evening Post from a small obscure magazine into a gigantic publishing enterprise, was dead today.

The noted editor died last night of pneumonia at his suburban Wayne home. He was 69.

Lorimer joined the Post in 1889 after two previous starts in his career. For eight years he was in the meat packing business in Chicago, and for two years he was a reporter on the Boston Post.

A letter to Cyrus H. K. Curtis, who had just bought the Post, asking for a job, brought him the position on which he built his life's work.

Lorimer was born in Louisville, Ky., Oct. 6, 1868. He was married in 1892 to Miss Alma V. Ennis, daughter of Judge Alfred Ennis of Chicago. They had three children, Graeme, Burford and Georgia.

Crash of Train, Truck Kills 3

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Two men perished in the flames of a burning truck and a fireman was killed in the cab of his engine today after the truck and a Southern Pacific passenger train collided south of Turlock. None of the 12 passengers on the train was injured.

The dead:
A. L. Ford, fireman, Oakland.
Vernie Norton, truck driver, Turlock.

Frank Lopez, helper on the truck, Turlock.
The train engineer, Paul Runyan, of Oakland, received severe cuts and burns when the engine overturned.

Soldiers Urge Peace

National chiefs of a vanishing army, these three Santa Ana visitors fought one war, watched two more from the sidelines and are afraid they'll see the beginning of another. Shown here are Dr. Overton H. Menner, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, George L. Lockwood, his national chief of staff and past commander of the California-Nevada G. A. R. department, and Col. Russell C. Martin, former national commander. They attended a reception in honor of Department Commander John W. Grimes of Long Beach here last night.

GAR Chief Brings Peace Message

Echoes of the roars of ancient muskets filled the M. W. A. hall last night, as gray-haired veterans of the Civil war met to talk over old times and to extend an official welcome to high national officials of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The "Boys in Blue" who fought against their own kind to preserve the union, last night urged strongly that in this day the union preserve absolute neutrality, and stay out of foreign entanglements.

"Let's not put our necks in a sling again," urged Dr. Overton H. Menner, Los Angeles, national commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., who was one of the honored guests. "We are firmly for peace."

CHIEF HONORED

Sedgwick post, No. 17, Grand Army of the Republic, was host to the visiting delegation, assisted by affiliated organizations. Particular honors were paid Department Commander John W. Grimes, of the California-Nevada department, who made his official visit to the local post last night. Last night was his birthday, and many gifts were presented to him.

The visiting party included Col. Russell C. Martin, Los Angeles, past national commander-in-chief of the G. A. R.; George N. Lockwood, past department commander and now chief of commandry.

NEW TAXES HINTED BY PRESIDENT

May Be Necessary to Finance Crop Control

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Chairman Jones (D., Tex.) of the house agriculture committee made public today a letter from President Roosevelt saying new taxes will be necessary if the cost of a crop control program is increased by the special session of congress.

The President outlined his plans for crop control legislation in letters to Chairman Smith (D., S. C.) of the senate agriculture committee and to Jones.

"It is of course, especially important that any new legislation should not unbalance the expected balancing of the budget," the President wrote.

"In other words, no additional federal expenditures from the general fund of the treasury should be made over and above existing planned expenditures. They attended a reception in honor of Department Commander John W. Grimes of Long Beach here last night.

MARKET DROP CONTINUES

NEW YORK. (AP)—The stock market swept into another broad decline today as offered shares swamped traders and forced prices down $1 to as much as $5.

Railroad and steel issues were the first to feel the selling wave, which, however, soon spread through all divisions of the market. U. S. Steel common dropped to a new low level for the year and Union Pacific, Louisville and Nashville, Santa Fe and Southern Pacific suffered wide losses.

Investigations' disappointment with the freight rate increases granted the carriers yesterday by the interstate commerce commission, coupled with the fact the market already had discounted them in higher prices the last few days, was said by brokers to have been one of the primary causes of the slump.

Damage Action Retrial Denied

D. H. Westmoreland of Huntington Beach, former county sanitary inspector, today had lost his motion for a new trial of a damage suit which resulted in a $3325.82 judgment against him.

Superior Judge G. K. Scovel denied the motion yesterday. Winners in the suit, which arose out of an automobile accident in Anaheim last Feb. 9, were Clara McMillan, who won $3036, and Lorea Ryan, who was awarded $289.82 when Judge Scovel ruled Westmoreland was at fault.

Miracle Occurs at Mission

San Juan Swallows Leave Nests to Swifts

The miracle of the mission was fulfilled today as the famous swallows departed from historic San Juan Capistrano and winged their way southward over the ocean, presumably to South America for the winter.

For the 163rd year the swallows left the mission on St. John's day. The departure was earlier in the day than usual. The birds took wing just before 3 o'clock this morning.

This morning the National Broadcasting company radioed the news to the nation, making the fourth year that the traditional event has been broadcast.

At dawn today there was not a swallow left of the thousands that nest at the mission seven months of each year. They left in small flocks, watchers said.

Now the townspeople at Capistrano confidently predict that the old tradition, which to them is a miracle, will have its other phase fulfilled when the swallows return to the mission on March 19, St. Joseph's day.

At noon today it was not yet

SOVIETS AND FASCISTS WRANGLE

Spain Volunteers Basis of Bitter Fight

LONDON. (AP)—Europe's principal powers were arrayed today in a new deadlock over Spanish neutrality, particularly on the procedure of clearing foreign troops from the warring country.

The latest of almost countless impasses in this wrangle resulted from refusal of the Fascist bloc—Italy, Germany and Portugal—to agree to be bound by figures on foreign soldiery to be tabulated by two proposed international commissions of inquiry in Spain.

The commissions would take a census of foreign soldiers and supervise their evacuation under the now threatened plan before the nine-nation sub-committee of the London non-intervention body.

RUSSIA OPPOSES
Another problem was Soviet Russia's opposition to the granting of belligerent rights to the warring sides in Spain until all foreign fighters had been withdrawn.

Ivan Maisky, envoy of Russia which sympathizes with the Spanish republican government, heightened the tension in a bitter debate with Italy's ambassador to London, Count Dino Grandi, when the sub-committee met yesterday to put the finishing touches to the plan to restore non-intervention.

Only a proposal by British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, chairman of the sub-group, prevented what might have been a smash-up of the negotiations.

RUSSIA CALLED
He may only have postponed it. He called for a recess until Monday, but today the next meeting of the sub-committee was postponed until Tuesday afternoon to give more time to try to obtain agreements from the governments involved.

The wrangling committee, holding its 67th meeting, finally prepared a series of propositions for inclusion in a draft resolution setting out the principal points of discussion.

Practically the only thing the negotiators agreed upon was that the resolution should be presented to the nine governments represented.

GIRL FREED ON KILLING COUNT

ISELIN, N. J. (AP)—Dark haired Margaret Drennan, acquitted by a jury, smiled wanly today as she spoke of her one wish—to "get away" for a rest from this little town where on a night six weeks ago she shot to death Paul Reeves, young father of two children.

Sitting in the warmth of her one-story home and surrounded by her family, to whom she returned after weeks in jail and five days on trial for murder, the 20-year-old secretarial student declared she planned to pass "a couple of days" here first and then take a trip.

She said she still wanted to continue the secretarial work that was interrupted by the tragedy Sept. 7 when, she told a jury of 11 men and a woman, she shot Reeves because he attacked her a second time.

AFL, CIO Leaders To Huddle Monday Over Peace Pipe

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Both the American Federation of Labor and John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization are ready to intensify their battle if next week's peace conference fails.

Representatives of both factions will come together Monday for the first time, but some labor observers predicted today the meeting might only delay a settlement of the two-year-old dispute. The A. F. of L. mapped out a three-fold campaign in the event negotiations collapse:

1. A divide-and-conquer policy, by expulsion of some CIO unions from the federation. Appeals to the CIO ran hand file to revolt and return to the federation, and invasion of the CIO territory by new A. F. of L. unions.
2. Political action against any government officials (federal, state and local) and any candidates for office who support or pledge support to the CIO.
3. An intensive membership campaign to make the federation's battle force and war chest larger than the CIO's and thus gain undisputed possession of the title to leadership of the American labor movement.

The CIO, on the other hand, is discussing a national convention to consolidate its forces by forming a national organization even more similar to the A. F. of L. than its present set-up.

It also intends to push its present campaign even more strongly along present lines. This includes political action on all fronts, and a drive for increased government help for labor.

Students of the situation said the first stumbling block at Monday's meeting probably would be the question of whether the conferees would discuss actual peace terms or merely the possibilities of a later conference.

Persons close to Lewis said he would instruct his 10-man CIO delegation to talk only about arrangements for a second meeting.

The three selected representatives of the federation, mindful of the CIO proposal to meet "with or without commitments," may attempt to end quickly the controversy between craft and industrial unions or lay the blame for future battles at the door of the Lewis' forces.

STERILIZE 62 KANSAS GIRLS

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Mrs. Kathryn O'Laughlin McCarthy, former congresswoman, today demanded investigation of what she termed "wholesale sterilization" of girls in the Kansas Industrial School at Beloit before Gov. Walter A. Huxman came into office.

Mrs. McCarthy told a conference of Democratic women school records showed 62 of the 148 inmates at the time Huxman was inaugurated early this year had been sterilized and that 22 more were slated for operations.

"So far as I can determine, sterilization was done as a punishment, rather than for any special good for society," she said.

Notes on Notes

By BRADEN FINCH

It's hard to put a dollars and cents value on the introduction of good music into a community.

You can safely say, however, that subscribers to the Musical Arts club series here this season will really get their money's worth.

Such famous artists and groups as Marian Anderson, Bartlett-Robertson piano duo, the Vienna Choir boys and Trudi Schoop and her Comic Ballet are on this year's program. Musical notes from that schedule of concerts will do more to raise aesthetic values in Orange county than all the promissory notes in the files of the bankers combined.

CHINESE HALT JAPAN DRIVE

SHANGHAI. (AP)—The great battle for Shanghai swung madly back and forth in the moonlight tonight in a maze of small creeks and meandering canals north of Tazang, six miles northwest of Shanghai.

Both sides admitted severe losses as the Japanese fought desperately to smash the Chinese lines and open the way to Nanking.

Just as desperately the Chinese battled to hold Tazang, loss of which would compel retreat from Chapel and Kiangwan, their strongholds on Shanghai's northern front.

Both sides tossed heavy reinforcements into the battle and each claimed success.

ADVANCE CHECKED

A Chinese army spokesman declared the Chinese had definitely checked the Japanese threat to Tazang after 70 hours of combat. A Japanese spokesman asserted details did not matter, because the Japanese were slowly but surely pushing the Chinese back and gaining their general objectives.

The struggle surged through scores of thatched-roofed farm villages, from which terror-stricken persons fled, driving their oxen and pigs before them.

Military spokesmen admitted it was impossible to designate the exact position of the front lines. Possession of a dozen specks on the map was in dispute.

SEVEN STUDENTS DIE AS STREAMLINER DEMOLISHES SCHOOL BUS

2 TEACHERS, DRIVER ALSO VICTIMS

MASON CITY, Iowa. (AP)—Ten persons, including seven high school students, were dead and 19 injured today in the wake of the Middle West's most disastrous streamlined train accident.

Besides the students, two teachers and a bus driver lost their lives when the glistering new "Rocket," three-car streamlined passenger train of the Rock Island railroad, plowed into a school bus on the outskirts of the city yesterday afternoon.

The bodies of dead and injured were scattered 500 feet down the right-of-way as the wooden bus burst like a crushed watermelon under the impact at a private crossing inside the yards of a brick company.

George Simpson of Des Moines, Ia., the engineer, said his train was traveling "between 20 and 25 miles an hour."

The dead: Rex Simpson, 25, bus driver; Dorothy Ross, 25, of Creston, Ia., and Loren Morten, 26, of Guernsey, Ia., both teachers; Lillian Cedar, 14, Hardy, Ia.; Don Amos, 16, Goldfield, Ia.; Patsy Turner, 14; Norman Eggerth, 16; Lowell Kelling, 15; Jimmy Bell, 15; Albert Siemans, 16, all students, the latter five from Renwick.

I'm finding out one thing. There are too many blondes and not enough brunettes.

I am in receipt of a rather technical interpretation of the coroner's verdict in regard to the airplane disaster in Utah. Charley Ott, my correspondent, spent 23 years in Utah, and then gave his share back to the Mormons in 1923. For the sake of an argument and just to develop a controversy I want to take the side of the coroner, out according to my opponent I'm on the losing end. He says that press dispatches credited to Coroner Joe Hopkins, of Summit county, Utah, quote him as having made the decision that the nineteen unfortunate airplane passengers came to their deaths accidentally. Joe's official conclusion "seems to be definite and final, and should absolve the pilot of any suspicion that he deliberately and intentionally drove his ship into the side of a mountain just to get even with somebody." Charley thinks the decision a masterly conclusion to a tragic accident.

Seek Lost Pair In Water Main

CHELSEA, Mass. (AP)—Engineers and workmen joined forces today in a weird search for bodies of two men lost in a mile and a half sewer main.

The men, Walter Stutz, 44, and Arthur F. Peterson, 30, both of Boston, entered the main yesterday to open a valve controlling an auxiliary flow of water. They were overcome by sewer gas and tumbled into the stream.

FIGHT SHIFTS

North of the Shanghai center of the fighting shifted from Tazang, where Japanese were trying to cut off Chinese communications about five miles northwest of the international settlement, to Kwangtu, well to the rear of the Chinese 25-mile front.

At Kwangtu heavy Japanese forces apparently were attempting to smash the Chinese lines to capture Nanzhang, China's powerful "winter line."

Japanese troops were reported to have reached within four miles of Kwangtu. The Chinese army spokesman declared, however, barbed wire entanglements along creeks and irrigation ditches were impenetrable and that Nanzhang was not believed in danger.

"The worst is now over and we are confident of holding out in Chapel indefinitely," the Chinese spokesman declared.

Chinese authorities reported Japanese casualties on the Shanghai front have totaled 65,000, including 24,200 killed. About 5,000 wounded Japanese, they declared, have been transferred to Dairen, Kwangtung leased territory, rather than to Japan.

BIBLE COLLEGE IS PLANNED

declined to reveal the contractor's name.

NOT A MEMORIAL
Reports that the school was to be a memorial to her son were denied, though some rumors said her son was Paul Redfern, American aviator who vanished in the South American jungles three years ago.

"How can it be a memorial?" she asked, "if the person is still living?" Further she would not comment.

Mrs. Redfern at one time planned establishment of a similar school in Long Beach, following her graduation from the Institute of Religious Science, a Los Angeles organization with a branch at Long Beach. The institute, however, said at that time Mrs. Redfern was "not authorized" to establish branches for it. She now is staying at the institute's branch in Long Beach, and said today she plans to conduct classes Thursday in that city.

INDEPENDENT
"Our school," said Mrs. Redfern, "is in no wise connected with any other metaphysical school. It is independently owned and conducted."

She said classes would be held in the San Clemente grammar school on Monday evenings beginning Nov. 1, and also in an apartment she has rented there.

Associated with her is Edna Mantor of Long Beach, said by some persons to be her secretary and by others to be her daughter.

Mrs. Redfern declined to comment on the reported $125,000 cost of the building, or other details whispered about San Clemente.

State Grange Re-Elects Head

MODESTO. (AP)—George Schlemmer, Sacramento, was reelected president of the California State Grange and Riverside was chosen as the 1938 convention city by members of the Grange at the closing session of their annual convention.

Before adjourning yesterday the exception to this would be the incurring of additional obligations on the part of the treasury, backed 100 per cent by additional receipts from new taxes.

FDR HINTS MORE TAXES

"In other words, whatever goes out must be balanced by an equivalent amount coming in."

Congress appropriated approximately $500,000,000 for soil conservation during the current year.

In making public the President's letter, Jones said "I feel confident that legislation can be worked embodying these principles."

He added he was "hopeful that we may have a bill ready for consideration in the early part of the session."

WARN AGAINST FAILURE
The President's letter warned against a repetition of the Republican farm board experiment with control of farm surpluses.

In summarizing the features that he said he believed should be incorporated in new farm legislation at the special session, Mr. Roosevelt said, "The new national farm act should safeguard farmers' income as well as their soil fertility. It should provide for storage of reserve food supplies in an ever normal granary, so that if severe and widespread drought recurs consumers will be assured of more adequate supplies with less drastic increases in price than it would otherwise be the case. It should provide for control of surpluses when and as necessary, but at the same time it should preserve the export markets that still are open to our farmers. It should protect both farmers and consumers against extreme ups and downs in the prices of farm products. It should be financed by sound fiscal methods. Local administration should be kept in the farmers' hands."

Mr. Roosevelt left the way open for new taxes in a statement at his press conference yesterday, declining to say flatly they were out.

MODIFY SURPLUS TAX
A forecast on the legislation, made by Senator George (D., Ga.) of the senate finance committee forecast today that the next revenue bill enacted by congress will "greatly modify" the capital gains and losses tax and the surtax on undistributed profits.

He contended the two levies have been a "serious check" on expansion of business, a criticism voiced by industrialists and some other legislators.

Senator Van Nuys (D., Ind.) said he has prepared amendments to the undistributed profits tax which would enable corporations to maintain reserves for expansions and improvements without being subject to tax.

George termed the capital gains tax and the surplus tax "unscientific" because, he said, they were not levies on "real income."

He suggested that if the capital levy could not be estimated entirely, it might be possible to provide for no tax on securities held 10 to 15 years, with a reduction of taxes on gains from securities or property held for shorter periods.

"There would be more inducement to property owners to improve property, make sales, improve profits and increase the volume of their business," he said.

President Roosevelt told reporters yesterday that treasury officials are studying the undistributed profits and capital gains levies in their survey of all revenue. Their report to congress is expected to recommend an overhauling of the general tax structure.

Grange adopted a resolution favoring a direct primary by state to replace the present electoral college method of election of the President of the United States.

PLANES LEAVE L. A.
SAN PEDRO. (AP)—Their final destination a secret, 19 bombing planes were loaded today aboard Southern Pacific railroad cars.

The planes were part of the cargo of the steamship Wichita, and were originally destined for the Chinese government.

RAILROADS SEEK MORE INCREASES

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Executives of the nation's class one railroads, granted a $47,500,000 freight rate increase indicated today they will ask the interstate commerce commission to approve a further increase of possibly 10 times that amount.

Railway officials accepted the higher rates announced yesterday by the commission as only a fraction of what they need to meet higher operating costs.

Wage increases in recent months, the carriers contended, added $135,000,000 to their annual outgo, or three times the extra income approved by the I. C. C.

J. J. Peiley, president of the Association of American Railroads, said the organization may file a petition for an additional rate increase next Thursday at Chicago.

FAILURE SEEN

Without additional increases, said President William M. Jeffers of the Union Pacific, the railroads may be "forced back into government operation."

Chicago, Chairman Harry Guy Taylor of the Western Association of Railway Executives said the increases would go largely to eastern lines.

"The $47,500,000 additional revenue annually granted by the I. C. C. represents only one-tenth of the $600,000,000 in additional expenses," Taylor added.

Informed persons here said the carriers probably will seek a horizontal 10 per cent increase. Yesterday's total was slightly above 1 per cent.

REFUSE RAISE

The $47,500,000 figure compared with $54,000,000 which the carriers had asked in negotiations that have lasted for months. The I. C. C. refused to raise rates on anthracite coal, refined petroleum in the southern territory and iron ore between mines in Minnesota and docks on Lake Superior.

Principal increases:

Bituminous coal and coke, increases ranging from 3 to 10 cents, terminating Dec. 31, 1938.

Lignite coal, 2 to 3 cents.

Iron and steel, 10 per cent to a maximum of one cent a hundred pounds, scrap 20 per cent to a 2 cent maximum.

Cement, lime, plaster, mortar and gypsum, one cent a hundred pounds.

Petroleum and its products, except in southern territory, one cent a hundred pounds.

DENIES CLAIMS

Commissioner Frank McManamy of the I. C. C. denied the assertion of shippers that freight rate increases would drive traffic from the rails to other modes of transportation.

"This contention has been negative by experience with emergency rates," he said. "The record shows that, under emergency rates greater, in many instances and much more widely distributed than what is before us here, rail traffic did not decrease."

STATE BANKING CHANGE SEEN

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Banking leaders today saw indications of a plan by Giannini interests to launch a new statewide branch banking system in the transfer of the state charter of the Bank of America, California, to an Oakland bank already controlled by the Giannini holding company, the Transamerica Corporation.

The Oakland institution, now known as the Central Bank of Oakland, with two branches in Alameda county, was given permission by State Superintendent of Banks Friend W. Richardson yesterday to change its name to that of the Central Bank, a name by which it was known prior to 1909.

By the transfer of the charter, the Bank of America, California, passes out of existence. It recently disposed of its branches in nine California cities to the Bank of America National Trust & Savings Association.

OPEN FIGHT ON PNEUMONIA

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The army began distributing today to the civilian conservation corps 150,000 pneumonia-prevention vaccine "shots" which army medical experts hope will lead eventually to banishment of the disease.

They shipped the vaccine to CCC camps in the first and ninth corps areas. The latter includes California.

The vaccine, developed by Dr. Lloyd Felton of the Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore, Md., is manufactured at the rate of 15,000 doses a week at the army medical center here.

Army doctors do not claim the vaccine is a "definite preventative" for pneumonia, but say that experiments in New England CCC camps have been encouraging.

NEWPORT'S PLANNERS CHALLENGED

Special dispensation by the Newport Beach planning commission to its secretary, Dr. Howard W. Seager, to deviate from the city zoning ordinance in construction of a building was challenged today in superior court by William A. Bartholomae, Jr., wealthy oil operator and yachtsman.

Bartholomae, Oil corporation, filed a complaint for an injunction against Seager.

SETBACK RULE

He seeks to prevent the latter's construction on Balboa Island of a building to within one foot of the frontage line instead of a 12-foot setback, and exactly to the property line in the rear.

Construction of the building by Dr. Seager, Bartholomae charges in his complaint, will obstruct the view from the Bartholomae company's two lots adjoining Seager's property.

Proceedings of the planning commission were inadequate, Bartholomae claims, in that no evidence was brought forth to show that variance from the zoning ordinance would not be detrimental to other property.

CLAIMS OKED VOID
He also charges that a city council oked of the planning commission's action was void because of that contention.

Dr. Seager's name appears on a copy of the commission's proceedings filed with the complaint, as secretary. Bartholomae, president of the oil corporation which bears his name, is commodore of the Newport Harbor Yacht club.

proposed to be granted the two sides in Spain only after "substantial progress" had been made in ridding the peninsula of foreign troops.

Italy's Grandi demanded that Russia comply with the proposal as a condition of the agreement.

Italy had reaffirmed her agreement to the principle of the British plan but stipulated there be unanimous agreement to it.

SPAIN REPUBLICANS READY FOR DRIVE

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier. (AP)—The Spanish Republican government was reported today to be rushing reinforcements to the Teruel and Tagon fronts to meet assaults of vastly strengthened insurgent forces against either Valencia or Catalonia.

Government ministries at Valencia, temporary capital, awaited an order to move to Barcelona, capital of autonomous but allied Catalonia, following affirmation of an accord between the two allied regimes.

While the insurgent chieftain, Francisco Franco, mopped up Northwest Spain in a victory sweep that would liberate most of 100,000 soldiers for a tremendous drive at either the present or future capital of the republic, other developments added grim drama to the 15-month conflict.

Government soldiers, taking refuge at Archacon, France, reported insurgent bombing planes sank the government destroyer Cisner in Gijon harbor on Wednesday, the day before the Gijon capitulated to the insurgents' seven-week northwestern offensive.

None of the destroyer's crew was killed but several were wounded.

Government sources estimated the Gijon, or Asturias, drive had cost Franco at least 30,000 men.

She charges that Mrs. Godde alienated the affections of her husband, Jack Doyle, Irish crooner and boxer. Miss Allen's interlocutory divorce decree from Doyle becomes final in April.

GARR FREED BY DEATH JURY

SHELBYVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Roy Garr, who a month ago shot to death Brig. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt when they met on the main street of this little bluegrass town, went back to his bird dogs today, a free man.

A jury of 12 tobacco farmers acquitted him of a murder charge last night amid wild applause.

Jack Garr, 37, youngest of the three brothers indicted for the slaying of the man who once was tried for the fatal shooting of their sister, Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor, 40, was acquitted earlier on a directed verdict.

He was with Roy and Dr. E. S. Garr when Denhardt was shot, but was not armed.

The case of Dr. Garr, the oldest brother, was postponed to February.

Capital of the republic, other developments added grim drama to the 15-month conflict.

DOUBT VALUE OF JOBLESS SURVEY

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Harry Hopkins' order for a WPA survey of the number of needy unemployed reflected today the doubts of some government statisticians about the value of the jobless census ordered by congress.

These officials have said privately that the completeness of voluntary registration by mail under the congressional act will be difficult to determine. They have expressed concern that an inadequate picture of the nation's idle will result.

Hopkins made no mention of this, however, in telling state Works Progress directors:

"I want to know how many people in the United States are unemployed, able to work, and in need. I want to get a WPA figure on it."

His language indicated that WPA's figures might be used to challenge any other estimate of the number of needy jobless which might be used in determining the size of next year's relief appropriation. An aide said he understood it was designed to see that no one was "left out in the cold."

The date fixed by Hopkins also emphasized that the WPA figures could be used in checking on the congressional census. The latter is scheduled to start Nov. 15. Hopkins asked to have his count completed five days thereafter.

Some observers expressed the belief this litigation might provide a basis for challenging any participation by Justice Black, who at one time was a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

One challenge of Black's participation in litigation already has been promised. It resulted from the court's refusal last Monday to interfere with a lower court ruling that the securities commission could subpoena telegrams sent and received by three Florida companies.

COURT TO HEAR NEGRO'S CASE

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The supreme court justice assembled today to decide whether to review the conviction of Haywood Patterson, one of the negroes involved in the famous Scottsboro, Ala., case.

Some observers expressed the belief this litigation might provide a basis for challenging any participation by Justice Black, who at one time was a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

One challenge of Black's participation in litigation already has been promised. It resulted from the court's refusal last Monday to interfere with a lower court ruling that the securities commission could subpoena telegrams sent and received by three Florida companies.

EXPERT TO RULE ON POLO NURSE'S PLEA FOR AID

NO DECISION REACHED AT HEARING HERE

Extent of Disability To Be Determined

Whether or not Elsie Foster Sylvia, victim of infantile paralysis while working as a student nurse in the county hospital in 1934, was permanently disabled, will be decided by an impartial medical expert to be appointed by the state industrial accident commission.

Both Miss Sylvia and representatives of Orange county from which she seeks additional monthly compensation, agreed upon this procedure yesterday when reports from physicians conflicted on the extent of her disability in a commission hearing at the city hall.

MEDICAL REPORT

Miss Sylvia, seeking a permanent disability rating, produced a report from a medical expert indicating she would never entirely recover from the dread disease, while Deputy District Attorney James E. Walker, representing the county, filed a conflicting report from an expert employed by the county, in which it was claimed the young woman has recovered from the disease.

The county will stand the expense of a third examination by an expert to be selected by the commission, and both parties tentatively agreed to stand by his decision.

STUDENT NURSE

Miss Sylvia has been drawing compensation at the rate of from $19 to $20 a month since her disability, and the county has paid nearly $400 for medical attention, it was reported. Since she was employed as a student without salary, her compensation has been based on a percentage of her maintenance while working there.

Yesterday's hearing was conducted by H. B. Jeffrey, accident commission referee from Los Angeles.

CUPID, STORK ON HOLIDAY HERE

Maybe it's the jittery stock market, maybe not, but anyway a temporary depression had hit Santa Ana's vital statistics agencies today.

After they'd been booming along at a prosperity clip all year, the bottom suddenly dropped out of the marriage and birth business.

Only five applications for marriage licenses were filed in the county clerk's office yesterday, and only one new baby was reported in this district last night and today.

Though not an all-time low, the lack of "intentions to wed" applications was described as definitely unusual by Deputy County Clerk Helen Kubly. During depression, she said, business frequently was that poor.

Birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Mayberry, 917 East Central street, Balboa, in Sergeant Maternity hospital early last night was the only business transacted by the recently-overworked stork.

Wedding prospects put on a brilliant comeback today, however, as 25 couples filed intentions.

Settle for $75 On $2982 Suit

Settlement for $75 of a $2982.28 superior court judgment was announced yesterday by Ridley Smith, attorney for Bart E. DeVol, life insurance company manager here.

Smith entered a stipulation for dismissal of the action and satisfaction of judgment after the case had been appealed to the fourth district court of appeal.

Charles H. Holbert, state manager for the insurance company, had sued DeVol for money advanced to DeVol to establish the company in Orange county. Holbert contending the money was to be returned. Presiding Superior Judge H. G. Ames ruled in Holbert's favor last July.

SPANIEL SAVES THREE LIVES Swims to Shore With Victims

PORT COQUITLAM, B. C. (AP)—A brown and white Springer spaniel was credited today with saving the lives of three persons in a boating accident which claimed four victims at Pitt lake.

Three men and a 4-year-old girl were drowned when Emil Anderson's 12-foot boat overturned with its eight occupants and sank yesterday. Anderson clutched the dog as he struck water and was towed ashore. Anderson seized 5-year-old Jacqueline Hayes and pulled her to safety with him.

"Bunnie," the spaniel, swam back to where the others struggled in 10 feet of water. He was clutched by Mrs. Harold Routley, whom he towed to shallow water and safety.

In a launch Cliff Thompson, a logger, rescued Mrs. Robert Hayes, mother of Jacqueline. None of the party could swim the 20 feet to shallow water. Four-year-old Marie Routley, David Henderson, Mansell Reece and Joe Fontaine drowned.

One Of Four Postmasters In U. S. Are Now Women

WASHINGTON. (AP)—One out of every four postmasters appointed during the Roosevelt administration has been a woman.

William J. Dixon, superintendent of postmasters, said today that 7108 women were among 28,092 postmasters commissioned between March 4, 1933, and Oct. 1 of this year.

The woman executives are following the example of Miss Mary K. Goddard, who in 1975 was appointed head of the Baltimore post office under Postmaster General Benjamin Franklin.

Her present-day successors range from girls barely over the present minimum age of 21 to veterans like Miss Mary W. Stewart at Oxford, Md., oldest postmaster in the United States in point of service. Now nearly 80 years old, she has held the position since 1877.

"Prior to 1900, there were comparatively few women postmasters," Dixon said, "but there now are more than at any time in this country's history."

Highest paid of the group is Mrs. Mary D. Briggs, appointed postmaster at Los Angeles, following the death of her husband about a year ago. She makes $10,000 a year (only the New York and Chicago posts pay more) and her office is the sixth largest in the nation, doing a business of $10,426,078 last year.

Women are serving as postmasters in every state, in Alaska, Puerto Rico, Hawaii and the Virgin Islands.

New Liquor Law May Give Julip Jugglers Jitters

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Word trickled out today of a federal hearing that may shake the nation's mint julep makers to their last piece of cracked ice.

A proposal has been made to the federal alcohol administration that American distillers, among other things, be allowed to put less corn in bourbon whiskey. Put more corn in corn whiskey. Back through the julep's lineage, fights have been fought and duels declared over such details as whether to mash the mint.

You can see what might happen if officials change the complexion of bourbon—the very juice of the julep.

LOSES ROUND IN FRAUD CASE

Mrs. Blanche Robinson, facing accusations of fraud and embezzling $15,000 from the estate of her wealthy cousin, Jonas P. Street, had lost another round in her court fight today.

Superior Judge G. K. Scovel yesterday overruled Mrs. Robinson's demurrer to a suit by Earl Abbey, special administrator of the estate, after she was removed as executrix on demand of four other heirs to the Cypress rancher's property. Judge Scovel also denied a motion to strike portions of Abbey's complaint.

Abbey is suing for an accounting and return of some $15,000, which he charges Mrs. Robinson obtained through undue influence on the aged rancher and embezzled from the estate after his death. Judge Scovel gave Mrs. Robinson 15 days to file an answer to Abbey's complaint.

S. A. Visited by Labor Leader

Santa Ana entertained a distinguished labor leader yesterday. He is Joseph Gilhooley, president of the national American Federation of Glassblowers' union. He was in Orange county on a tour of inspection, visiting glass factories and studying working conditions. His last trip to Santa Ana was in 1923.

'SPECTER' IS AUDITORIUM BEING MOVED

Many Santa Ana motorists' eyes bugged last night as they passed the vicinity of Russell avenue and South Sycamore street, and if any were slightly tipsy, they probably swore they'd never see another drop.

Parked squarely in the middle of the road was a colossus of girders and planks 26 feet high, 45 feet wide and half a block long.

It was no "pink elephant," however. School board officials even insist it's no "white elephant."

"BROKEN IN" It's the new Lathrop junior high school auditorium, already built and nicely broken in, and it was "in transit" from its old location at South Sycamore and Wilshire streets.

The building formerly belonged to the Seventh Day Adventist church. It still bears religious inscriptions, but these will be covered over when school officials start converting the ancient tabernacle into an auditorium that will be appropriate for school purposes.

Actual moving of the building started yesterday. It was nearly installed at its new home by noon today, but the moving job, biggest in recent Santa Ana history, will not be completed until late next week.

Slice off wings The tabernacle was too wide to move in one piece. So employees of the Tubert House Moving company, who contracted to pad the structure up Sycamore street for $500, sliced off two 15-foot wings and will bring them along later. The main portion of the auditorium is 115 feet long.

School employees will begin installing seats, remodeling inside and out, and re-plastering and stuccoing the wood-frame building late next week. It will be ready for occupancy shortly before Christmas.

'Crash Mother' Death Victim

DES MOINES, Ia. (AP)—Mrs. James Weiborn's long battle for life was over today.

The 90-pound "crash mother" died last night of bronchial pneumonia nearly seven weeks after she suffered a fractured skull in an automobile accident early on the morning of Sept. 4.

Four hours after she was received at the hospital after the accident she gave birth to a son, now healthy and normal. Then, three days later, she became a widow when her husband died of a fractured skull.

Preacher-Killer Trial Date Set

ELIZABETH, N. J. (AP)—Lloyd Pusey, 44-year-old itinerant preacher, pleaded "self defense" today when he was arraigned before Judge Lloyd Thompson on an indictment for murder in the hammer killing of his evangelist wife.

Trial was set for Nov. 15. Pusey is accused of beating his wife, the former Mary Cannon, 44, to death with a mason's hammer in their car here Aug. 27, their fatal argument reputedly climaxing a quarrelsome cross-country trip from Los Angeles.

State Senator Quits Position

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—State Senator Dan E. Williams of Sonoma submitted his resignation to Governor Merriam today.

No reason was assigned. Williams recently established his legal residence at Moscow, Idaho, preparatory to filing suit for divorce and thus automatically set aside his California citizenship, which according to the interpretation by the secretary of state's office, disqualified him for his legislative office.

Ancient Safe Yields $2500

MARYSVILLE, Calif. (AP)—A small safe, lying beside a highway for more than a year, yielded $2500 in valuables.

Sheriff C. J. McCoy recovered government bonds, coin and jewelry for Miss Pansy Higgins. The safe was in the pioneer Stanfield Hill store, destroyed in a forest fire in September, 1936. Miss Higgins explained she merely had delayed having the safe opened.

Band Will Play At Hospital

Another concert in the monthly series being presented at the Orange County hospital by the federal music project band is scheduled for Monday afternoon at 2:30. Eddie Klein will conduct.

The concert, arranged through the interest of Mrs. Phil McClintock of Whittier and presented with the endorsement of project officials, will continue until late in the fall, according to Klein.

SHEARING THE GOOD THINGS OF LIFE

By PROF. C. DE CORN

One of the most serious mistakes that has ever been made in the United States was the attempt to prevent people from getting large amounts of food, shelter and indulgences instead of preventing people from getting a dangerous kind of food, shelter and indulgences. All of us are always making mistakes. I even make them myself. If anyone knows of any mistakes I have made, I wish they would write in and tell me. Space is always open in this column for correction of the mistakes either publicly or privately. We cannot do too much to correct mistakes. Mistakes are a great mistake.

Sometimes I think we economists are making a great mistake by not making one big mistake to end all mistakes.

A BIG MISTAKE It is this failure to differentiate between the amount of food, shelter and indulgences and the kind of food, shelter and indulgences that is one of the principal causes of mistakes. And we cannot be too careful in avoiding mistakes, especially bad mistakes.

Take the case of milk cows. I knew a cow once who was struck by lightning. Bossie, that is the name of the cow, suffered no damage, but when the farmer milked her, he found that the electricity had changed the milk to butter milk.

THE MILCH BUSINESS This clearly was a mistake, since butter milk brings less on the open market in competitive bidding than sweet milk. This is just as true today as it was when Adam Smith wrote his famous book.

Now if the lightning had changed the milk to cream, it would have been an economic advantage of the most technical condition, since too many people are making mistakes as a result of wishful-thinking. Consequently the lightning made a mistake and therefore it was uneconomic lightning which otherwise could have been used to improve the condition of the farmer by producing cream not to mention the shock it must have been to poor old Bossie.

Year in Jail For Laguna Youth

John Niles, 21-year-old Laguna Beach youth, today was beginning a year in the county jail as the result of his first tangle with the law.

Niles was sentenced to the jail term and given five years' probation yesterday afternoon by Superior Judge James L. Allen after he pleaded guilty to burglary charges.

His companion, Leonard Heimbaugh, 20, in whose car officers said they found the pistol Niles admitted taking from a home in Laguna, was sent to Preston school of industry for approximately 14 months.

Theft Guilt Is Denied by Miner

Frank Inman, 55, El Dorado county miner, arrested Thursday on a charge of petty theft, pleaded not guilty before City Judge J. G. Mitchell yesterday and his trial was set for 2 p. m. next Wednesday. Bail was set at $100.

Inman was charged with "borrowing" $5 from Stewart Burnett, truck driver he had promised to employ, and then leaving on a bus for Oceanside, where he was arrested. The aged miner did not ask for a jury trial.

FARMER AID PROGRAM TO CONTINUE

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Federal workers in the broad field of conservation reported progress today in three lines of endeavor—to restore soil fertility, stabilize agriculture and bring back woodland to eroded hills.

They grouped the soil and farm production problems together. Next year, they said, will bring an extension of the practice of building up good land and taking poor land out of cultivation.

They issued figures showing the planting of millions of trees—a program designed to help agriculture and at the same time prevent floods.

Secretary Wallace called the 1938 soil conservation plans "a progressive development" from practices of the past.

His aides have not yet tabulated reports on participation in the 1937 program, but 65 per cent, or more than 283,000,000 acres, of the nation's total crop land was covered by the 1938 program.

The 1938 extension calls for a limitation of 275,000,000-280,000,000 acres for all soil-depleting crops, as compared with the 1928-37 average of 305,000,000 acres for such crops.

Motorists Admit Reckless Driving

Two motorists pleaded guilty to reckless driving charges in Judge J. G. Mitchell's police court yesterday. Frank D. Mason, Santa Ana, arranged to pay his $25 fine, and Arthur D. Lewis, Santa Ana, was to reappear today.

Speeding fines included: George Nardia, Escondido (speeding and failure to appear), $10; Julius B. Lowenstein, Santa Ana (55 in 25-mile zone), $15; Dan Solorzano, Anaheim, $10; Freda M. King, Los Angeles, $8; Eliza M. Doss, Santa Ana, $8; D. C. Dillingham, Orange, $8, and A. L. Montever

NEWS OF ORANGE COUNTY COMMUNITIES

S.C. COUNCIL VOTES DOWN PICKET LAW

SAN CLEMENTE.—There will be no anti-picketing ordinance for San Clemente, it was decided at the meeting of the city council Wednesday evening.

The request of the chamber of commerce for such a measure had been referred to City Attorney B. Z. McKinney for an opinion at the previous meeting, and his report stated that he did not believe a city of the size of San Clemente required a law of this kind as the police had sufficient authority to cope with any disturbance that might arise.

McKinney also rendered an opinion on a proposed ordinance regulating and taxing billboards. He stated billboard laws passed by some localities were almost prohibitory in effect and he did not think they would stand in the higher courts. However, an ordinance of less drastic nature might be passed which would give the city power to regulate and license these advertising mediums.

The council authorized the city clerk to ask for bids on two new automobile trucks, contracts for which will be awarded Nov. 17.

Former Midway Resident Feted

MIDWAY CITY.—Mrs. M. E. McKay of Pomona, a former local resident, was a guest this week of Mrs. R. P. Meairs.

An informal luncheon in her honor was enjoyed at the Meairs home Tuesday by a group which included Mrs. Dale Braybrooks, Mrs. Bert Heath and Mrs. Russell Johnson.

TOO MANY FIANCES
by KATHRYN CULVER

Guy Garrison, playboy wintering in Miami, is in a fix. His millionaire Uncle Sherman, upon whose bounty he is dependent, has been so insistent upon his getting married that he finally sent the old man a purchased photograph of Joan Wilton, night-club singer, saying that he was engaged to her—though he had never even met her. In the meantime, he has actually become engaged to Mabel Lane. Now Uncle Sherman is on his way to Miami on his yacht to meet Joan, and to ask her and Guy to join him on a cruise. Guy, fearing his uncle's reaction if he should spring a new girl on him, offers to pay Joan to go on the cruise as his fiancée and to do her best to antagonize Uncle Sherman, while Mabel is playing up to him, so that he will order Guy to throw Joan over in favor of Mabel. Joan agrees, then suddenly wavers, and sends for her friend, Ned Acton.

CHAPTER VI

JOAN nervously twisted Guy's ring on her finger.

"I hadn't thought—Ned's likely to complicate matters," she faltered.

Ned suddenly swung the back of his hand heavily against Guy's cheek.

"Ned? Do you mean this is some man whom you'll have to consult?" Guy asked.

Joan nodded. "Ned Acton. He's—we're not engaged or anything like that—but..." She gazed at Guy with eyes that were mistily bright.

Guy groaned. "And they told me at the club that you were a man-hater!"

Joan blushed guiltily. "Ned is one of the reasons—the main reason—why I wouldn't accept any invitations at the Mandarin."

"I'm sure he'll understand," Joan averred doubtfully. "He's very understanding."

"Suppose he doesn't? Suppose he flings off the handle when you tell him what you've agreed to do. Will it all be off? Are you the kind

Neal Foley Feted At Birthday Event

MIDWAY CITY.—Neal Foley celebrated the occasion of his 10th birthday with an afternoon party at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Foley, recently.

Halloween decorations and games featured the affair which was attended by Muriel and Carolyn Furry, Patty Pearle Meairs, Sammy Joyce Tayes, Joyce Ferguson, Dorothy and Vivian Hart, Lolla Mae Knight, Mary Ellen Prichard, Betty Hall, Doris Jean Foley, Jack and Robert Fridow, Kyle Wier, Dick Stone and Raymond Nelson.

G. G. Mothers Are Honored at Tea

GARDEN GROVE.—Mothers of kindergarten students of the Lincoln school were invited to a get-together tea planned by the teacher, Miss Betty Toland, with the assistance of the kindergarten room mothers of the Parent-Teacher association, Mrs. Graham Lewis, Mrs. W. W. Perkins, Jr., Mrs. Jack Reed, Mrs. Earl McCullah and Mrs. Cartwright Smith.

The affair was held in the kindergarten bungalow Wednesday afternoon. The school principal, Mrs. Ethel Evans, presided at the tea table.

"Not yet," she told him steadily. "We have some business to discuss with Mr. Garrison."

"Sit down, Mr. Acton," Guy urged. "Let me order you something."

"A bottle of ale," Ned agreed. He sat down beside Joan. "What's this about business?"

"Mr. Garrison has offered me a job in place of the one I lost tonight," Joan explained glibly. "At the same salary—with a five-hundred-dollar bonus if I do all right."

Ned's gray eyes studied Guy approvingly. "You don't look like a producer."

"It's not that kind of a job," Joan told him. "It's—entirely different sort of work."

Ned's gaze dropped to the table, where Joan's left hand lay carelessly displayed. His eyes suddenly narrowed. He leaned forward and tapped the back of her hand.

"How did that ring get on your finger?" he demanded.

Silence lay heavily on the table. Joan drew a deep breath.

"That's part of the new job," she said swiftly. "It's all crazy and wild up here. You'll have to suspend judgment until you hear it all."

Ned's ale came just then. He poured it, foaming, into a glass. He didn't say anything.

As Joan hesitated, Guy said pleasantly, "I'm sure you won't have any objections, Mr. Acton. When you understand the importance of this to me—and to my fiancée, Miss Lane."

Ned rumbled, "I'm not so sure. Go on, Joan."

HE LISTENED broodingly, his gaze fixed on the diamond ring, while Joan briefly explained the situation, and the part she was to play.

"That's all there is to it, Ned," she ended. "Just a two-week cruise on Mr. Sherman Garrison's yacht. Miss Lane will also be on the cruise. And I'll earn seven hundred dollars having a good time."

"Having a good time posing as this man's sweetheart," Ned's tone was grim and uncompromising. "Take off that ring, Joan."

Her face went white. She gripped the edge of the table.

"Please don't be like that, Ned. He said again, 'Take off that ring.'"

Joan glared at him. "I'm not going to!"

Guy interposed, in a placating tone.

"I don't blame you for reacting this way, Mr. Acton. The story does sound goofy, but every word of it is true. I've got myself into this mess and—"

"You'd better get yourself out of it," Ned spoke out of the side of his mouth, without looking away from Joan.

"Please, Mr. Acton," Mabel put in. "Try to be fair about it. Suppose you were in the same fix—"

"I wouldn't let myself get into such a fix," Ned assured her coldly.

HIS tone, however, softened as he again spoke to Joan.

"You're not really going through with this crazy idea, are you?"

"Why not?" she cried rebelliously.

He said, "I don't propose to let the girl I love pretend to be engaged to another man."

Joan's face suddenly became radiant.

She said softly, "That's the first time you've told me you loved me."

"I wouldn't have chosen exactly this place nor these circumstances," Ned told her harshly. "But you forced me to. Now, are you going to strip that ring off your finger?"

"Wait a minute," pleaded Guy. "Don't go off half-cocked."

"Keep out of this," Ned warned. "Guy leaned forward angrily."

"I'm not going to keep out of this! It's—"

Ned suddenly swung the back of his hand heavily against Guy's cheek.

Guy's chair went over with a bang, and Mabel screamed shrilly.

13,000 WATCH BALL GAMES AT LAGUNA

LAGUNA BEACH.—According to the report submitted to the recreation commission by William R. Tattersfield, director, nearly 13,000 spectators watched softball games during the recently closed season.

Viewed favorably by the city council, the report, which was relayed to the clerk by recreation commission head Francis B. Morris, was accepted and filed with accompanying expressions of commendation.

MISSIONARIES PLAN PARTY

ALAMITOS.—The Friends church missionary society, meeting Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Agnes Stanley of North Euclid avenue, made plans for the annual evening meeting in observance of Thanksgiving. The meeting, to replace the regular afternoon session, will be held at the church the evening of Nov. 18. The program will be arranged by Mrs. Margaret Miller, Mrs. Nellie Amos and Mrs. Lavina Rice with the assistance of the committee to be headed by Mrs. Emma Kearns and Mrs. Elsie Broady.

The meeting opened with devotions and a talk on missionaries by Mrs. Nellie Amos. Mrs. Albert Stuart reviewed the Advocate and Mrs. Persis Branson discussed Bible women. C. L. Green of Picentia, as principal speaker, discussed "Opportunities at Hand."

Members attending were Mesdames Liza Guess, Veva Long, Nellie Amos, Persis Branson, Elsie Broady, Josie Nichols, Lavina Rice, Alice Walte, Sarah West, Albert Stuart and Miss Jennie Hoover.

Minerals Topic For Rotarians

ORANGE.—C. O. Sanford, Los Angeles mining engineer, visited members of the local Rotary club Thursday that Southern California has a greater variety of minerals than any other section of the United States, adding that 400 different kinds are found in this part of the state.

He clasped borax as the most important mineral found here, and said that this alone brings an annual income of $5,000,000 to the state. About 98 per cent of the borax is mined in California, he added.

The speaker discussed the granite deposit found near Big Bear by a local resident, Mark Hart, and said that gold is often found in deposits of this material.

Program chairman for the day was S. B. Edwards, and Tom Douglas presided.

TOWNSEND NEWS, VIEWS

By WALTER R. ROBB

Don't forget the big Orange county Townsend mass meeting at 7:30 this evening in Santa Ana Townshend hall at 509 West Fourth street. Good music, good speaking and the fellowship that is always present in Townsend meetings of Los Angeles will speak. Come all ye Townsendites and bring your song books and your friends. Let's demonstrate our interest and loyalty.

There are a lot of business men who seemingly just can't understand the need of there being vested in the rank and file of the public a large buying power. They still harp on the old theory that wages must come down before times can become better when in fact the opposite is true. They argue that as long as the cost of labor is high which goes into the cost of producing that it must necessarily be that products will have to be priced to sell at prices beyond the capability of the public to buy and hence there will follow a decreased volume of business. Then there are those who decry the $200 per month Townsend annuities on the ground that such a volume of spending would be harmful to the country, forgetting that it would be their cash registers which would ring with the first profits of such spending. These business men should listen to the words of a really big industrialist on the question of high incomes. On the eve of his seventy-fourth birthday Henry Ford of the Ford Motor industry said:

"You have no idea how many business men outside the ranks of independent industry honestly believe that wages must come down if the country is to prosper."

"They seem to be unable to understand that the only market this country has is based on wages, and the higher the wages the better the market. Every movement to cut wages or to prevent wages going up, is a blow at the market by which industry must live."

Naturally, we have plenty of people to say that it is better to employ 1000 men at $5 a day than 500 men at $10 a day. It seems so, but it isn't. The higher wage enables men to buy things that start many more men to work, while the smaller wages—

P.T. A. HEAD RESIGNS AT OCEANVIEW

OCEANVIEW.—Mrs. P. H. Marshall, entering her second term as president of the local P.T. A., presented her resignation at the regular meeting of the organization Wednesday afternoon. A nominating committee was chosen to name a candidate for the office to be presented at the November meeting.

Mrs. Ray McCormick, chairman of the membership drive which closed this week, announced 92 members had been signed, with pupils of the fifth grade winning the contest for securing the most members.

Beatrice Brockman, local faculty member who spent her summer vacation in the Orient, gave an interesting talk on her travels. Edith Brush and Mildred Samuels played several numbers on the guitar. Mrs. J. A. Murdy, Jr. and Mrs. Howard Pamplin were hostesses.

ORANGE 'Y' DRIVE IS SET

ORANGE.—As a preliminary to the annual financial drive of the local Y. M. C. A. the president of the board, Ralph W. Hull, yesterday appointed Walter W. Perry as director of the campaign to raise $5000 to carry on the "Y" work for the coming year. The drive will start Nov. 2.

Two "majors" to work under Perry are J. T. McInnis and L. L. Williams. Arthur E. Sipherd was appointed chairman of a special speakers' bureau called "Three Minute Men."

A workers' breakfast will be held Friday at 7 a. m. in the Sunshine Broiler to discuss final plans and receive last minute instructions. The goal of the drive last year was $3700, but the greater amount is necessary this year to care for needed repairs to the building and to enlarge the scope of the work to reach more boys.

There are 60 workers enrolled in the work of the drive, it was announced.

End Straw Poll On H. B. Hall

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—William Gallienne, chamber of commerce executive secretary, today announced final results of the postcard straw vote conducted last week by the chamber to find out if the voters of Huntington Beach still wanted a beach pavilion here. The final tally showed there will be a social program. "The public," she says, "is invited."

Garden Grove club No. 1 will meet Monday evening at 7:30 in the Ebell club building at East Chapman and Harvard avenues with Ota A. Everett, president, presiding. Walter R. Robb of Santa Ana will be the speaker.

Mrs. Loretta Lytle, secretary of the Yorba Linda club No. 1, writes that the regular semi-monthly meeting will be held in the social hall of the M. E. church at 7:30 next Monday evening, Oct. 25. After the business meeting there will be a social program.

The city council has authorized construction of the pavilion, which will start about Feb. 1.

Midway C. E. Has Skating Party

MIDWAY CITY.—The Intermediate Christian Endeavor society of the Community church enjoyed a skating party in Long Beach recently.

PATTERN 5880

Gardening in fall or winter is most gratifying if you let your flowers grow in gay wool or silks. You'll enjoy the variety of colors and embroidering the "dream cottage" that's framed by the rose trellis. There's little work as so much of the background is plain. It needs only a lining. In pattern 5880 you will find a transfer pattern of a picture 15x20 inches; color key and chart; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches used.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Journal, Household Arts Dept., 117 East Fifth Street Santa Ana, Calif. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

Maple P.T. A. Program Told

ORANGE.—An outline of programs for the coming year was given by the program chairman, Mrs. Robert B. McAulay, when Maple street P.T. A. met in the school Wednesday afternoon.

Speaker of the afternoon was Miss Vena Jones, school nurse, who gave methods of checking up on the health of the child, told the proper care of teeth and eyes and outlined physical activities according to age.

Mrs. Arthur Shipperd, vice-president, presided. Refreshments were served by fifth grade mothers.

Officer Returns From Long Trip

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Gene Belsh, motorcycle officer with the Huntington Beach police department and family returned Wednesday night from a four-week tour.

He left here for Carthage, Mo., and from Carthage went to Huston, Miss., by way of the Ozark mountains. On the way home he visited the Texas Pan American Exposition at Dallas, Carlsbad Cavern, New Mexico, and El Paso, Texas.

SMART COMEDY HERE SUNDAY

Broadway Also To Show 'Madame X'

Starring Herbert Marshall, Barbara Stanwyck and Glenda Farrell, the sophisticated new comedy, "Breakfast for Two," opens tomorrow at the Broadway theater with "Madame X" also billed.

"Breakfast for Two" is a romping comedy in the mode of the day, highly seasoned with humorous situations, and excellent direction that maintains the light touch throughout. Eric Blore has a leading role.

The story tells of a charming self-assured young Texas girl who rescues the wastrel son of an illustrious New York family, and despite his antipathy, takes over his business, home and personal affairs, and reestablishes the family shipping business.

"Madame X" is one of the most celebrated and heart-stabbing dramas the world has ever known. With Gladys George in the title role and Joan Beal and Warren William playing the son and father respectively, the famous story of a woman's degradation and her ultimate sacrifice comes to the screen as one of the major offerings of the year.

The climax comes in the powerful courtroom scene, where the mother is defended against a murder charge by her own son. Short subjects include the latest issue of "The March of Time," a cartoon, "Steel Workers," and World News.

Young, Ameche To Show Here Soon

Loretta Young and Don Ameche play the romantic leads in the exciting drama, "Love Under Fire," which comes to Walker's theater next Thursday with George O'Brien in "Windjammer," as the companion feature.

Ameche plays a Scotland yard detective whose vacation in war-torn Spain is interrupted by orders to arrest the lovely Loretta. "Windjammer," an exciting saga of the sea, stars George O'Brien. An intriguing romance is threaded through "Windjammer," between O'Brien, as an attorney trying to serve a subpoena to the yacht owner, and Constance Worth, who enacts the role of the yacht's mistress.

Broadway Books Hepburn Drama

A new double feature program with "Stage Door" and "Hold 'Em Navy," will open at the Broadway theater Oct. 31, it was announced today by Manager George King. "Stage Door" features Katherine Hepburn, Ginger Rogers and Adolphe Menjou, while the cast of "Hold 'Em Navy" includes Lew Ayres and Mary Carlisle.

Cagney Musical Ends Run Tonight

James Cagney's latest picture, the Victor Schertzinger comedy with music, "Something to Sing About," which ends at the Broadway theater tonight with the Western thriller, "Thunder Trail," gives the versatile red-headed star his first opportunity to display his dancing talents.

In "Something to Sing About" Cagney plays a popular leader of a night club orchestra who goes to Hollywood to star in a picture. He is told he is a failure, when he is a great success, and he goes off on a honeymoon without leaving a trace. He returns to find himself a famous star, but high pressure publicity methods sicken him and he leaves again. The new singing star, Evelyn Daw, appears in many of the musical numbers.

An exceptional cast and an action-packed story make "Thunder Trail," Zane Grey's latest, an absorbing film. The story opens with the massacre of a wagon train, led by the father of two young boys. How the two boys eventually get revenge provides dramatic action. The cast includes Gilbert Roland, Charles Bickford and Marsha Hunt.

Karloff, Lagosi Coming to State

Wednesday and Thursday the State theater will present Edgar Allan Poe's mystery, "The Raven," co-stars Boris Karloff and Bela Lagosi. The second feature on the program is a fast-stepping melodrama, "Fly-Away Baby."

"The Raven" casts "Dracula" Lagosi as Volin, a demented surgeon genius. Saving Jean Thatcher's life, he becomes infatuated with the girl. His ambitions are thwarted by the girl's father and her sweetheart, Jerry. To eliminate them Volin horribly disfigures Bateman, portrayed by "Frankenstein" Karloff.

The flying romance and murder mystery, "Fly-Away Baby," features Glenda Farrell as "Torch Blane" and Barton MacLane as Lieut. Steve McBride. They plan a swift marriage, but instead have it delayed by their discovery of the gun which has caused a furor in the news world.

TO SHOW 'UNDER TWO FLAGS'

Starting Sunday for three days the State theater will present a double feature program with "Under Two Flags," and "Mr. Dodd Takes the Air." A chapter of the series "The Roaring West," also will be shown.

Topping the cast in "Under Two Flags" are Ronald Colman, Claudette Colbert, Victor McLaglen, and Rosalind Russell.

Quida's story of the French Foreign Legion portrays Miss Colbert as a hoydenish child of the desert, madly in love with the charming Colman, but he gives his heart to Rosalind Russell. When Colman's commander, Victor McLaglen, finds that this soldier stands between him and Miss Colbert, he makes every effort to destroy his subordinate by placing him in posts of danger.

"Mr. Dodd Takes the Air," introduces as a full fledged film star, young Kenny Baker, who has long been a top-ranking radio favorite. Vivacious Jane Wyman has the leading feminine role.

Frank McHugh, Henry O'Neill, Alice Brady, John Eldridge, and Gertrude Michael are among the noted funmakers in the cast.

I just found out

The 'Lowdown' On S. A. Fliers

By MILLARD BROWNE
Commercial airways may neglect Orange county, but a checkup at Eddie Martin's airport, local aviation stronghold, furnishes ready evidence that the art of piloting sky buggies is no stranger to Santa Ana.

Locally owned commercial ships will have traveled around 480,000 miles this year, just flitting around Orange county with passengers and students. That doesn't count long-distance charters, mileage by the nine privately-owned ships based at the Martin plant or sundry other commercial and hobby flying.

The airport's been running for 14 years, slackened off with everything else during depression, and now is back up to the activity level enjoyed during prosperity. Flying is cheaper now, though, so the profits aren't equal to 1929.

The airfield owns three ships, used mostly in student and passenger trips, chartered flights for aerial photography and similar tasks. Hourly cost of operating them at about 90 miles an hour is $6, $8 and $10, according to Floyd Martin, who is Mr. Boss while brother Eddie job flying on some other flying. Joe Hager assists with instruction and commercial work.

Most revenue comes from students, who currently number around 50. During a good year, the airport will give lessons to around 100 student pilots.

They're required to take six hours of flying time before they're allowed to solo at the Martin plant, although a few bright pupils probably could do it after two hours. Federal department of commerce restrictions will boost the time to eight hours later this fall, Floyd Martin explained. A private license will cost the average pilot $350 worth of flying time.

About half of the students plan to take up flying professionally, others just as a hobby or for limited commercial purposes. Many start to fly, quit when they run out of money, then come back a few months later and take up where they left off.

Some of the nine privately owned ships are for pleasure, others are bought by students with transport licenses who still need flying time in order to get a pilot's job on an airline. Major airways require more than 1000 hours' experience, and most potential pilots can't afford to buy the time at $6 or $8 an hour. So they invest in ship, do odd jobs that pay for flying the plane, then sell it and get a steady piloting job.

More than a dozen transport pilots have been turned out by the Santa Ana "school," and several private pilots are qualified for transport licenses, but figure the license is too expensive when they don't need it.

Only one major crash has occurred from the local field. That happened in August, killing two youths. Except for that one black mark, no one has ever been injured in flying from the Martin field.

That doesn't count a few narrow escapes, though. There have been a number of scary experiences, but fliers always came out on top.

One private pilot, for example, has made four forced landings, the last of which happened only a few weeks ago. He was flying over the ocean, ran out of gas and glided in through the fog. Picked out a farmer's dairy yard to land in, and the farmer graciously hauled his ship out onto the highway. Its gas tank was replenished and the pilot took off from the road.

Approximately 1500 passengers go up "just for the thrill" each year, and half of them have never been up before. The other half either get a dollar's worth of kick out of flying, or else they're just accompanying some friend who's never been up.

CRAWFORD FILM AT W. C.

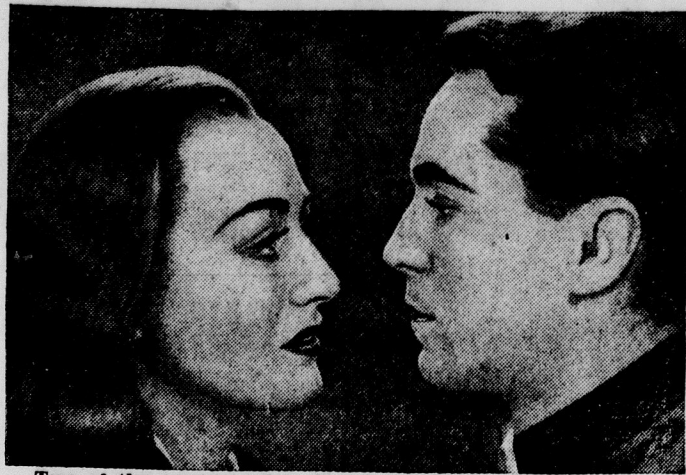

Joan Crawford again demonstrates her superb artistry in "The Bride Wore Red," now showing at the West Coast theater with the comedy, "Over the Goal."

With the lovely star are her actor-husband, Franchot Tone, and Robert Young in romantic competition. Others in the cast are Reginald Owen, Billie Burke, Lynne Carver, George Zucco and Dickie Moore.

Miss Crawford has her most colorful role as a waterfront waif who becomes a grand lady for a month by chance of fate. She lays the foundation for her future on a house of happiness built on lies during her month of make-believe.

"Over the Goal" is a comedy-drama of college football life, featuring June Travis and William Hopper, and with a cast including Mabel Todd and Herbert Rawlinson. The story deals with a bet made between a couple of players on rival teams back in 1887. They wager that 30 years hence, each will produce a winning team. They both grow rich, and the climax comes when their two teams meet. Several collegiate songs are presented in the film.

In 'The Bride Wore Red'

Two of the most popular stars in moviedom, Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone, are shown above in a scene from "The Bride Wore Red," the current attraction at the West Coast theater which will close Tuesday night. The second feature is a college football comedy-drama, "Over the Goal."

'Under Two F lags' at State

Rosalind Russell and Ronald Colman as seen together in "Under Two Flags" with Claudette Colbert and Victor McLaglen will screen for three days at the State theater, starting Sunday. The co-feature on the bill will be "Mr. Dodd Takes the Air," featuring Kenny Baker, well-known radio tenor.

ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD.—Kenny Baker never believed that guff about a child's being seen but not heard. Kenny was heard in pictures before he was seen, and it's taken him four years to combine the sight and sound of him and become a movie actor.

Kenny is not exactly a child. He's 25. Four years ago he lost his job in a studio when the male chorus was disbanded. He had never been seen on the screen. As a voice in the employ of Mickey Mouse, he never got his face on the screen either. The first time, in fact, that Kenny knew how he looked in pictures was when he saw "The King and the Chorus Girl." He merely sang in that. Now he'll find out how he acts. Because of the short airline distances between points that would be a long ways off for auto travel, aviators are about as hospitable as you'd find, steady patrons at Avritin's field agree.

Visiting pilots drop in from practically every airport in the state from time to time, and Santa Ana fliers return the compliment when they're on trips. "Because of the short airline distances between points that would be a long ways off for auto travel, aviators are about as hospitable as you'd find, steady patrons at Avritin's field agree."

The story goes that the field was used once or twice without knowledge of the airport authorities, for smuggling this and that across the border. Federal officials stationed themselves there for a few weeks several years ago, however, and the rumors—never anything more than stories about suspicious motor rumblings—petered out.

Unusual Drama Shows Thursday

Hotly controversial in theme, "They Won't Forget," an adaptation of Ward Greene's "Death in the Deep South," will open at the Broadway theater next Thursday, it was announced today by Manager George King.

With a cast headed by Claude Rains, Gloria Dickson, Edward Norris and Otto Kruger, "They Won't Forget" is a smashing and fascinating story of murder, prejudice and mob hatred.

Second attraction will be "Love Is on the Air," a picture which combines mystery, comedy and thrilling drama.

Gene Autry Film Coming to State

Gene Autry's latest western musical, "Ride Ranger Ride," opens next Friday at the State theater on a program that includes the Three Stooges in "Cash and Carry." Added short subjects will include a cartoon, "Two Lazy Crows," would news events and chapter two of the serial, "Secret Agent X-9."

"Ride Ranger Ride" revives the historical era when Texas rangers and blue-coated U. S. cavalrymen were endeavoring to pacify Indian savages who for years halted the westward trek of U. S. pioneers.

DEANNA DURBIN AT WALKER'S

Deanna Durbin, who rose to screen fame in "Three Smart Girls," will be starred in her second picture, "100 Men and a Girl," a comedy drama with music which opens Sunday at Walker's theater along with "Annapolis Salute," featuring James Ellison and Marsha Hunt.

Featured with Miss Durbin is Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony. Adolphe Menjou is seen as her father, a musician who, with 100 fellow artists, seeks recognition of talent and a chance for a livelihood. Alice Brady portrays a society matron who promises Deanna to sponsor the orchestra. Then the rich woman flounces off to Europe and leaves Menjou and Deanna in the lurch.

Eugene Pallette, as Alice Brady's husband, has the situation placed squarely before him by Deanna. Her eloquent statement causes him to agree to sponsor the orchestra, providing Stokowski will conduct it. Deanna charms Stokowski with her singing. He agrees to hear the orchestra. Then the story sweeps to its climax.

Drama, romance and comedy, blended into a fast-moving story and highlighted by the picturesque spectacle of life at the U. S. Naval academy, mark "Annapolis Salute," with James Ellison, Marsha Hunt, Harry Carey and Van Heflin in the leading roles.

'Blazing Sixes' Due Here Friday

The latest movie starring Dick Foran opens Friday at the State theater. It is a Warner melodrama called "Blazing Sixes," and the numeral refers to the six guns with which Dick, his pals and their enemies, the stage-coach robbers, volley their way through the plot.

The first episode of "Secret Agent X-9," here of one of the nation's more popular newspaper strips, will appear on the same program with "Blazing Sixes." Also on the program is a comedy "Who's Crazy?" a Betty Boop cartoon and news happenings of the world.

New Powell-Loy Comedy Coming

With William Powell and Myrna Loy back in the farcical type of roles which have made them famous in "The Thin Man" and many other hits, "Double Wedding" will open at the West Coast theater next Wednesday, it was announced today by Manager George King.

Advance notices say that "Double Wedding" is the dizziest, daffiest and drollest comedy hit to be produced in a long time.

The second feature will be "Dangerously Yours," featuring Cesar Romero and Phyllis Brooks.

Santa Anans Active In Conclave

When Delta Theta Chi launched its state convention at the Hollywood Roosevelt hotel this morning, 14 Santa Anans were present as delegates of Psi chapter, and took an active part in all proceedings.

The local group is in charge of the formal breakfast which will take place tomorrow, and many delightful features have been planned to amuse the 150 delegates that were expected to attend the convocation of the national social and educational sorority.

Under the clever direction of Miss Irene Ross, favor of sandpaper boats with raffia sails have been made to suggest a Dutch motif, and the breakfast table will be decorated with yellow chrysanthemums. Miss Betty Vorce, president of Psi chapter, will preside as mistress of ceremonies.

The convention is featuring many social events in addition to its routine business. A formal dinner, a theater party, a cocktail party, and the breakfast are among the many events scheduled.

Attending from Santa Ana are the Misses Irene Ross, Leonor Baxter, Dorothy Jessup, Alice Whitten, Marjorie Walton, Lenore McFarren, Adeline Loptien, Mary Bowyer, Daisy Carr, Margie Livsey, Mildred Loudon, Betty Vorce, Jeannette Leikhus, and Mrs. T. E. McLeod.

YOUNGSTER HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY TODAY

Little Carol Jane Rutledge's first birthday anniversary today was celebrated with a lovely party given by her grandmother, Mrs. G. F. Batelle, 219 East Twentieth street. Carol Jane's mother, Mrs. John Rutledge of Stanton, assisted.

Pink and cream-colored chrysanthemums repeated the colors that were used to decorate a pretty birthday cake which was centered with one huge candle. During the afternoon the children enjoyed games and their mothers worked on quilt blocks for a quilt for the young honoree.

Present were Mrs. James Gough and Sharon Yvonne, Mrs. Helen Wade and Billie, Mrs. Howard Baines and Beverly, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Kraemer of Orange, Miss Louise Sarraill of Fullerton, Mrs. Jessie Blair, Mrs. Clayton Eiland and Shirley and Betty, Mrs. M. M. Asper and Merle Willis and Betty Mae, Mrs. A. L. Gallagher and Mrs. Eugene Smith and Bobbie Smith of Buena Park, Mrs. Kenneth Coll and Kenneth of Southgate, Mrs. Jack Willis, Mrs. F. R. Wilson, and Mrs. M. J. Irwin of Los Angeles, Mrs. D. L. Plannote and Lee, and Miss Carol Batelle.

JULIA ANN HYDE TO CONDUCT MEXICAN TOUR

Increasing prominence of Julia Ann Hyde of Santa Ana as a travel entrepreneur was evinced today with the announcement that she will conduct a party of travelers into Mexico starting tomorrow.

Mrs. Hyde and her party sail on the Panama Pacific S. S. California for Acapulco. From thence they will go by automobile to Taxco and to Mexico City. On their return they will stop at Guadalajara.

From Orange county with her will go Mrs. Maude Wiley, Mrs. Emma Wassum, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Kaufman of Santa Ana, Mrs. Hazel Maag of Anaheim, and Mrs. Ida Brinkman of Bala. Others in the group will be Mrs. G. L. Eddie, Mrs. Cornelia Wolff, Mrs. J. Gardiner, and Mrs. Sara Hewitt, embarking at San Francisco, and Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Kolmitz, Mrs. John Deiber, and G. Martin of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Brinkman is en route to New York and Lansing, where she will purchase a new car and drive home leisurely.

D. A. V. PLANS SPECIAL PROGRAM NOV. 3

Plans for the annual party complementing Gold Star fathers and mothers of Orange county were completed this week when members of the Disabled American Veterans' auxiliary held their meeting in the Knights of Columbus hall.

All Gold Star fathers and mothers of Orange county will be guests at the party to be held Nov. 3 in the K. of C. hall with a special program to be presented. Mrs. William Hutchinson is in charge of refreshments, while Mrs. Harry Pickard will arrange table decorations.

The sewing circle will meet all day Tuesday in the Riverside home of Mrs. Elmer Maxson. An announcement was also made of the recent visit of local members to the Sawtelle hospital, taking with them 650 magazines, 108 bound books, candy and cigarettes.

MAGNOLIA CAMP
Magnolia camp, Royal Neighborhood of America, will have its annual costume ball and masquerade party in the M. W. A. hall at 8 p. m. Monday night.

Stars Tonight

Equally important as those who play leading roles in "First Lady," produced last night and tonight at the Ebell auditorium by the Santa Ana Community Players, is Gladys Simpson Shafer, charming matron and talented director of the players.

JEFFREYS ARE HOME FROM WORLD CRUISE

A complete round-the-world circuit has just been completed by two prominent Santa Anans, Mr. and Mrs. George Jeffrey, who returned yesterday to their Irvine ranch home after an absence of more than three months.

The Jeffreys toured principally in countries which they had not previously visited, doubling back only into Switzerland, which is their favorite European spot.

They started west last August, going from the Hawaiian and Philippine islands to the Orient and Asia. They spent several weeks in Japan and China, and left Shanghai just the day before it was bombed by the Japanese. In fact, their outward bound ship was passed by 30 Japanese warships, and the Hotel Carthay, in which they had been registered, travel entrepreneur was evinced attack.

After touring India and Egypt, which impressed them greatly, they proceeded to Genoa where they disembarked from their Dolomiti liner and went on to Hungary, Germany, Austria, Czechoslovakia and Switzerland. Their return to Santa Ana from New York City was made by railroad.

MRS. THOMAS IS HOSTESS

Mrs. Eugene Thomas decorated her Newport road home with pompon dahlias in rich autumn shades when she entertained members of the Octagon club and guests Thursday afternoon. Small bowls containing dahlias centered the tables for the serving of a desert course at 1 o'clock. Games of contract followed with Mrs. Stanley Morgan, a guest, winning the high score and Mrs. L. A. Ford of Garden Grove, second high.

Mrs. Herbert Stroschein was also a guest, the other members present being Mrs. F. C. Armin, Mrs. Charles Hunt of Anaheim, Mrs. A. J. Woodworth and Mrs. Claudine Irvine of Garden Grove.

MRS. SPENCER IS HOSTESS

Mrs. L. D. Spencer was hostess to a meeting of the Mothers' Study club this week, at which Mrs. Josh L. Wilson led a discussion on the topic "Children Must Be Ready to Learn."

Present to enjoy the refreshment course which concluded the evening were the Mesdames Fred Ray, J. E. Finn, Guy T. Matics, J. W. Fraley, C. R. McGowan, Herbert Hayson, William Humphrey, Forrest White, Kenneth Loughton, Herbert Parsons, and two guests, Mrs. R. M. Hodson and Mrs. John Mayfield of Fullerton.

X. N. O. MEETS IN PERRY HOME

Members of the X. N. O. club enjoyed an informal afternoon of sewing, culminated by the serving of a dessert course at small tables appointed with Halloween decorations Thursday when they were entertained in the home of Mrs. E. E. Perry, 828 South Parton street.

Present for the afternoon were Mrs. R. W. Edwards, Mrs. B. A. Hershey, Mrs. H. R. Trott, Mrs. R. A. McPhee, Mrs. M. O. Johnson and two guests, Mrs. E. P. Perry and Miss Theda Taylor. Mrs. A. R. Bennett, president of the group, was unable to be present.

HAS LUNCHEON

Mrs. Bertha Berry entertained her foursome at luncheon at Danger's one day this week. Contract was later enjoyed by Mrs. Berry, Mrs. Roy Ivens, Mrs. Margaret Church, and Mrs. E. F. Mues.

MOTHERS CLUB

The American Legion Mothers club will hold its monthly meeting in Veterans hall all day Monday, with a covered dish luncheon to be served at noon.

Secret Rites Revealed To Friends

Romantic news of the secret wedding of Miss Theola Ridgway and J. D. Parsons, popular young Santa Ana couple, in Yuma, Ariz., was told to a large group of friends Thursday evening at a formal reception held in the Doris-Kathryn Te shoppe.

Heading the receiving line were the new Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Parsons, with the lovely bride attractively gowned in black transparent velvet and a tiny white lace jacket. Two orchids formed her corsage.

Also in the line were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ridgway, parents of the bride, with Mrs. Ridgway in green silk with a corsage of burnt-orange chrysanthemums; Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Parsons, parents of the groom, Mrs. Parsons in black and white georgette with gardenias; Mrs. Elizabeth Arbore, grandmother of the bride, in green and gold silk with gardenias; and Mrs. Nellie Young, grandmother of the bridegroom, in black silk with gardenias.

The rooms were decorated in autumn shades, with a centerpiece of warm fall shades of chrysanthemums on the refreshment table, where sandwiches, salad, and dessert were served. Miss Marion Parsons, sister of the bridegroom, gowned in black silk with a gardenia corsage, presided as hostess during the reception.

Four close friends of the bride assisted in serving refreshments to the group. They were Mrs. Merle Wolverson in duobonnet taffeta with a cyclamen corsage; Mrs. Russell Goetting in duobonnet velvet with gardenias; Mrs. Eugene Anderson in rust taffeta with telephone roses, and Mrs. Don Crumley in blue velvet with gardenias and pink sweet peas.

During the evening, the young couple told of their marriage, of wearing a tea-rose knit suit with all blue accessories. They are now making their home at 819 Lowell street. The new Mr. and Mrs. Parsons are both graduates of Santa Ana High school. Mr. Parsons is associated with the Pontiac garage and Mrs. Parsons with the telephone company.

Guests at the lovely reception and announcement party included Mr. and Mrs. Carl Arbore of Bala, Mr. and Mrs. Will Hough, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Theo Lacy, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Evenson, Mr. and Mrs. Don Crumley, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Wolverson, Mrs. Maxine Brand, Mrs. E. E. Gilbert and Miss Eugenia Gilbert, Miss Vernis Wagner, Miss Pauline Parsons, Max Busch and Delbert Ridgway.

MOAVS CHOOSE FIFTEEN NEW PLEDGES

It was during colorful and secret rites performed Thursday afternoon that 15 Santa Ana Junior college women students became pledges of Moavs, women's service club. The occasion was a formal tea held in the home of Miss Jean McKamy on North Park boulevard.

Greeting the guests at the door were Miss Evelyn Richards, president, in a wine-colored moire dress, and Miss Jean McKamy in orange crepe. Other members who assisted as hostesses were Miss Anne Pellegrin in blue satin, Miss Carolyn Ryan in black chiffon, Miss Donna Baker in blue taffeta, and Miss Manning in blue crepe.

The McKamy home was beautifully decorated with fall flowers. Miss Richards poured during the tea hour from a lace-covered table centered with a huge bowl of yellow chrysanthemums and green candles, carrying out the color motif of the society. Miss Lucinda Griffith and Miss Edith Pitlike, advisors, arriving later, also assisted in hosting.

The pledges were instructed in their duties for the coming week. Miniature Egyptian scarabs symbol of the group, were pinned on the Misses Jane Austen, Juanita Atkinson, Marian Bradley, Margaret Davis, Kay Kipp, Peggy Sudduth, Louise Wilson, Evelyn Wright, Marcella Stein, Barbara Julien, Ruth Rimmel, Aileen Reid, Margy Brown, Fay Neher, and Barbara Foye.

ATTEND MEET AT RIVERSIDE

The week-end will be a busy one for several members of the Santa Ana Business and Professional Women, who left early today to attend a two-day convocation of the organization at Riverside Mission Inn.

In the group of local delegates are Mrs. L. D. McNaught, Dorothy Decker, Genevieve Humiston, Lena Thomas, Hazel Northcross, Edith Thatcher, Mabel Whiting, Mabel Spizzy, Lulu B. Finley, and Dora Glines.

EIGHT ENJOY BRIDGE, LUNCH

Entertaining informally at luncheon and bridge yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Dan E. Maloney was hostess to an eightsome at her home, 930 South Broadway.

Her guests included Mrs. Cotton Mather, Mrs. Byron Curry, Mrs. Clara Johnson, Mrs. Aldric Worswick, Mrs. Howard Rapp, Mrs. Thomas Trawick, and her house guest, Mrs. Herbert Bradley of Portland, Ore.

Cassius Paul Home Scene Of Party

Although Dr. and Mrs. Cassius Paul have occupied their lovely new home at 1804 Heliotrope Drive for many weeks, they had had no official housewarming until a group of friends conspired to surprise them with a gala event.

Friends of Mrs. Paul called during the day, each bringing a bouquet of lovely flowers, until without the hostess realizing that her home was being prepared for a party, it was beautifully decorated. Both Dr. and Mrs. Paul were completely surprised when the dozen couples arrived in the evening, bringing with them a gift for the new home and refreshments for a late supper.

In the party, which was organized by Mrs. Loren Moore, were Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Harris, Dr. and Mrs. Milo Tedstrom, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Segerstrom, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Holles, Mr. and Mrs. Ridley Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Carter H. Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Raddant, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Elson of Orange, Mrs. Claude Van Antwerp, Dr. and Mrs. K. H. Sutherland, who won high score prize at contract.

MRS. EDGAR HONORS MOTHER-IN-LAW

Mrs. Carl Edgar was hostess in her home, 14 West Seventh street, on two occasions yesterday, both of which she had planned to compliment her mother-in-law, Mrs. Louise Edgar on her birthday anniversary.

The birthday celebrant was guest of honor at noon luncheon when she was surprised by the serving of a large birthday cake. Mrs. Carl Edgar decorated her rooms with Mexican sunflowers and marigolds for the afternoon informal hour during which many friends of the older Mrs. Edgar called.

Guests who enjoyed the chatting and refreshments late in the evening were Mrs. H. P. Lykke, Mrs. R. Anderson, Mrs. Christine Faccou, Mrs. Armand Faccou, Mrs. Frank Philbrook, Mrs. A. B. Townsend, and Mrs. A. J. Germain.

RAINBOW CLUB ENJOYS NOON LUNCHEON

Mrs. L. A. Walkinshaw was hostess to fellow members of the Rainbow club this week when she entertained them with luncheon and an informal afternoon in her home on Parton street.

The hostess centered her tables with bowls of small chrysanthemums in warm autumn shades, and used baskets of the larger mums in the same shades throughout the rooms. Gifts of pottery were presented as birthday remembrances to Mrs. A. E. Kohler and Mrs. L. O. Warne.

Guests of the club included Mrs. L. A. Downie, mother of the hostess; Mrs. May Crissman of Fort Collins, Colo.; and Miss Mrs. Gibbons of Santa Ana. Club members attending were Mrs. L. O. Warne of Covina, Mrs. Will Hatch of Arcadia, Mrs. Mary Adamson and Mrs. Scott Torrens of Tustin, Mrs. Roy Kelchner, Mrs. A. E. Kohler and Mrs. Walkinshaw of Santa Ana.

EDWARDS HOME TO BE WEDDING SCENE

Of great interest to county folk this week was announcement of wedding plans of Miss Maybelle Anita Edwards, daughter of Nelson T. Edwards, ex-senator and prominent Orange banker. Miss Edwards will wed William Samuel Hammel of Ontario at a quiet home ceremony to be performed Oct. 30 at the Norton home.

After the nuptials at which the Rev. R. B. McAulay will officiate, the young couple will go to Chicago, where they will make their home, and where Mr. Hammel is associated with an automobile firm. The bride-elect was graduated from Orange High school and the University of Southern California, and for several years has been connected with the Southern California Automobile Club in Los Angeles.

VISITS HERE FOR TWO DAYS

Mrs. E. T. Brannan came from Riverside Friday afternoon to attend a birthday luncheon given by Mrs. Harry Warner, 326 East Bishop street, honoring Mrs. T. H. Ham of Los Angeles, a former Santa Ana. For years these three friends and Mrs. W. W. Kays have met on their birthday anniversaries and had luncheon together.

Mrs. Brannan stayed overnight with her mother, Mrs. George L. Wright, 831 Winter street, who entertained her card club this afternoon.

Present for the pleasant affair today were Mrs. Jesse Elliott, Mrs. Arthur Koepsel, Mrs. Elwood Bear, Mrs. Mabel Blee, Mrs. John Danerl, Mrs. Lynn Shrewsbury, Mrs. Brannan, and Mrs. Wright.

Energetic Interior Decorators

Santa Ana Country club was a hotbed of activity this week when decoration committees of both Comus club and the Country club united their efforts to transform the clubhouse into a gay holiday scene. Snapped while making plans for the event on Thursday and tonight were these young matrons. From left to right in the back row they are Mrs. LeRoy Burns, Mrs. Bob Fernandez, Mrs. Ernest Gould, Mrs. George Parker, Mrs. Roy Langley, and Mrs. Lawrence Cameron perched on the ladder. In the lower row are Mrs. Paul Hall, Mrs. C. V. Doty, Mrs. Robert Weston, and Mrs. Roy Renwick.

CHAT AWHILE with BETTY

It may be going to cost Yacht Clubbers twenty-five bucks for dinner on New Year's eve, but Fifty-Fifty club members are re-joining in the prospect of a whole, giddy week-end at Palm Springs for far less than that sum. And could almost be bed down at El Mirador, too.

The occasion is the club's inauguration, when Wayne (Uncle Corny) Harrison, LeRoy Burns, Jack Bruning, James Tuma, Everett Lutz, Jim Fleming and Stan Norton take their solemn oaths to do or die for good old Fifty-Fifty.

Their fraus will, of course, be in on the party of Nov. 13-14, and it sounds like pluperfect fun, methinks.

Speaking of dance clubs—let's not. This week has bubbled and gurgled with nothing but dance clubs and dances. In fact that favorite word of mine, "plethora," could almost be used in connection with the epidemic.

But no one can deny they're fun. Harriet Gould created quite a sensation with her symbolic paintings of Comus club's five past presidents at the group's climactic affair Thursday. Five pathetic little ghosts wandering across a midnight-hallow scene were each doing something different.

I could understand why the one in the foreground with the huge pair of pliers and the tooth could represent Bert Nail, and anyone could guess why the wraith moaning over a broken golf club might personify Dick Ewert. Even Andy Anderson's ghost whistling and Fred Merker's ghost wielding a hoe were recognizable and understandable. But why Riley Huber's pictured spirit should be flourishing a huge beer mug leaves me just a vibrant, burning question-mark!

The picture in question can be just faintly discerned in the background of the picture appearing elsewhere on this page.

Mutability: It's a funny thing how a sub-rosa romance Can bud, bloom, and fade during just one dance...

Amid comings and goings of the week—Lucille Anderson and Betty Finley pulled out via the streamline yesterday morning for Berkeley and the S. C.-Cal game. Helen and Arnold Norton preceded them by a day, and Stan and Evelyn Norton left yesterday, too—of course the Norton tribe has to support young Miles in his pigskin career. Horace and Florence Stevens and Dick and Es Emison trekked up to Bishop yesterday to do a little week-end fishing, and Dr. John and Isobel Ball have gone eastward for a vacation.

The Lawrence Mitchells went game-wards, too. And Hume and Stella West are winding up a fortnight's rest at Palm Springs.

Tragedy of the week: When Kay Farwell's beloved little Persian kitten was run over. She and Gloria White had just been cutting a few capers in jubilation because at the end of the first day of the Assistance League rummage sale of which they were in charge, they were within eighty dollars of the entire sum cleared last spring in three days.

The stock was so depleted at the end of the first ten hours that only the most peculiar assortment of stuff remained—a table of five hats for a dime—a couple of rickety bedsteads—a rack or two of faded summer dresses—and an array of miscellaneous that ranged from long-cherished and mothly half-switches to china wash-bowls and back again to corsets and full-dress suits. Yet Gloria (daughter-in-law of Mrs. James Irvine) was pondering the advisability of loading it all in a truck and setting up a peddler's stand under a walnut tree to lure a different class of customers. She didn't want to take any loss on her stock!

I notice that Sara Haddon wore a very simple little frock minus button-trimming this year. Remember last spring how a certain prospective purchaser came up to her and asked for some buttons just like those on Mrs. Haddon's dress? And how the redoubtable Mrs. H. snipped hers off and sold them?

Buddy Horton was wandering around getting pointers on how to Smart outfits noted here and there (other than formal!)—Alice Harrison in a short caracul jacket, Mrs. A. I. Mellenthin in a lovely blue knit that just matched her eyes, Florence Steverson in dark slacks and a yellow beer jacket, and Mary Safley in a stunning black number with silver girdle and a long flowing veil. The latter out-vogued Vogue, and reminded me fleetingly of the sad demise of Isadora Duncan, whose flowing veils were her undoing.

What popular young matron who speaks the grand lingo of three lines in capable fashion in the current Community Play was the recipient of a bouquet of sadly wilted blossoms from a sextet of buoyant friends?

And who is our prominent dowager who is so definitely reminiscent of Eleanor R—-it?

Ginger and Dana Lamb, Santa Ana's treble canoe-voyagers who paddled to South America in six months and have since been lecturing countless times per week, have just sent off a written account of their adventures to the publishers. As yet it's untitled, but Mrs. Lamb is holding out for "South With The Sun." It's a good one, seems to me. They're both enthusiastic about a presentation of one-act plays being staged at the Beaux Arts theater in Los Angeles through and including Oct. 30, by one Kay Van Piper, who has given the "Coronet Series" over the radio for the past several years.

Congratulations to the V. L. Motrys who celebrated their twentieth milestone this week.

Ditto to the W. L. Deimlings, who became grandparents for the third time Oct. 16 when William James Deimling Well (Bill Jim) arrived to brighten the family life of Conrad and Persana Deimling Well up at Calistoga.

IT'S A TURF BREAK Because he scorned to play his hunches.

With which pre-season observation I leave you to meditate until next Tuesday morning at eleven-thirty when your fingers may bring joy to your ears by tuning in at KVQE.

See you next Saturday! —BETTY GUILD

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Norland at their Baker street residence Thursday night were Audrey Steele, Margery and Donald Button, and Ronald Hawthorne.

The group enjoyed a steak bake in the moonlit garden of the Norland residence, retiring later to the house to hear selections from Mr. Norland's extensive collection of recordings.

Hostess-Duo Fetes Two Groups

Mrs. M. A. Yarnell and Mrs. Parke Roper were hostesses yesterday at a delightful luncheon in the Roper home, 1810 North Broadway. A group of Victorville friends had entertained the two hostesses a number of times, so the whole club of that city was invited to meet the members of the Santa Ana bridge club of which Mrs. Yarnell and Mrs. Roper are members.

Mrs. E. S. Morrow brought lovely dahlias from her Balboa garden, and other colorful contributions of flowers were made by Mrs. R. G. Tuthill, Mrs. Clare Johnson, and Mrs. John Walls of Anaheim.

Guests lunched at two large round tables, and later enjoyed an afternoon of contract, for which high score prizes went to Mrs. L. Gilliland and Mrs. C. V. Davis, and a lucky prize was awarded Mrs. F. E. Farnsworth.

Invited to share the pleasant afternoon were Mrs. R. M. Wilson, Mrs. C. M. Moon, Mrs. M. J. Harkness, Mrs. L. V. Robinson, Mrs. R. G. Cranston, Mrs. Jennie Richardson, and Mrs. L. Gilliland, all of Victorville; Mrs. John Walls of Anaheim; Mrs. A. W. Cleaver of Fullerton, and Mrs. George Briggs, Mrs. C. V. Davis, Mrs. L. A. Collier, Mrs. R. G. Tuthill, Mrs. F. E. Farnsworth, Mrs. Rowland Yeagle, and Mrs. J. E. Liebig of Santa Ana.

MISCELLANEOUS GIFTS GIVEN SANTA ANAN

Miss Betty Howell of Santa Ana, whose wedding to Lawrence Chaffee of Garden Grove will be an event of the very near future, although the exact date has not been set, was complimented by her fiancée's mother, Mrs. Ralph Chaffee, and his sisters, Mrs. Marjorie Hunter of Norwalk and Miss Ethel Chaffee, with a surprise miscellaneous shower, Wednesday evening.

Invited to dinner at the Chaffee home, Miss Howell was completely surprised when the guests arrived after dinner.

The hostess trio had arranged an interesting series of games, for which Mrs. Dorothy Godney and Mrs. Pearl Reeder received prizes. As these were awarded the honor guest was presented her gifts. The serving of refreshments at the card tables appointed in the hall-lounge theme concluded the pleasant evening.

Guests included Miss Howell, Mrs. Mary Perdue, Mrs. Allen Floyd, Mrs. Lyle Jellison, Mrs. Gerald Bowers of Santa Ana, Mrs. Genevieve Peterson, Anaheim, Mrs. Carrie Chaffee, Mrs. Pearl Reeder, Miss Elma Smiley, and Mrs. Helen Godney.

FIFTEEN JOIN PHI THETA KAPPA IN RITES

The highest possible scholastic honors at Santa Ana Junior college were accorded a group of 15 students yesterday evening during formal and solemn initiation rites conducted in the jaycee library making them new members of Phi Theta Kappa, honorary scholastic society.

Performing the rituals for the black-clad initiates were Miss Lella Watson and L. L. Beeman, advisors, and Miss Henrietta Rurup, alumnae member. Officers of the organization include Fred Dierker, president; Hans Bergqvist, vice-president; and Miss Freda Wagner, secretary-treasurer.

Following the rites a business meeting was conducted and tea was served to conclude the afternoon's session. New members included Miss Ruth Budd, Miss Margaret, Miss Catherine Cooper, Clyde Fells, Miss Mary Henderson, Tom Hudspeth, Alberta Metzger, Miss LaVene Parks, William Schlosser, Miss Marjorie Schmidt, Miss Ann Wetherell, Miss Betty Jane Moore, Miss Roberta Berry, Miss Barbara Knuth, and Miss Marion Doty.

Organization of a weekly dancing club which meets at the Putnam School of Dancing each Wednesday evening was effected this week by boys and girls of Willard Junior High school. Miss Mary Morton is chaperon-teacher.

In the group are Allen Fipp, Lowell Branson, Shirley May Hilliard, Adele Lewis, Ronald and Raymond Marale, Francis Thronburgh, Eugene Smith, Marjorie Adkinson, Ken Lloyd, Mary Alice Ecklund, Margaret Hawk, Lily Ann McDonald, Barbara Jones, Robert Bower, and Patricia Paul.

SAYS REALTORS GUARD PUBLIC

Declaring that conscientious realtors must assume the responsibility of protecting the "innocent public" from the free practices of unethical real estate men, Arthur G. Maspero, president of Long Beach realty board and member of the national institute of appraisers, yesterday spoke before the Santa Ana realty board at its weekly luncheon in the Rossmore cafe.

"Some financial institutions—and real estate men too—are going back to the same practices that caused the depression," Maspero charged.

Citing several places where unscrupulous real estate brokers have cheated the public, Maspero declared "99 per cent of the realtors are conscientious," but added, "It's the rotten apple that contaminates the whole barrel, so it's up to you realtors to weed out your 'rotten apples'."

The board passed a resolution commending the city council for holding over a proposal to rezone the Santa Ana boulevard district until a planning consultant has been employed.

President Earl Hawks conducted the meeting and introduced Maspero.

FARM BOY GOES TO JAIL HERE

Charles Gibson, 20-year-old Arkansas farm youth who wandered into bad company, will spend the next nine months in the county jail.

Superior Judge James L. Allen sentenced Gibson to the jail term and three years' probation yesterday on Gibson's plea of guilty after an hour-long probation hearing in which Gibson described in detail what he did on his father's farm, where he washed dishes in San Francisco, and how he rode to Fullerton with two other youths the night an ice cream parlor there was burglarized of a cigaret machine.

Special Sermon Series to End

Because of scheduled engagements in other cities, Evangelist Virginia Brandt Berg will deliver her last sermon in the series of special services that have been conducted in the Christian and Missionary Alliance, Main and Bishop streets, tomorrow night.

The meetings have been in progress in the local tabernacle for the past five weeks, with a large attendance reported for each service. Mrs. Berg will speak on "Everyday Religion" tomorrow morning, and will take "The Last Chance" as the topic for her final sermon.

After leaving Santa Ana, the evangelists will keep appointments in Los Angeles, Monterey and Oakland, following which they will open a revival campaign in Oklahoma City.

To Give 'Prayer For Workers'

"A Prayer for Workers" will be the topic of the sermon to be delivered by the Rev. Albert Eakin Kelly in the United Presbyterian church, Sixth and Bush streets, at 10:45 a. m., tomorrow.

The special service will be in observance of annual worker's day, a feature of the October "Go to Church" campaign. Miss Elizabeth Morgan will sing a soprano solo, "The Lord's Prayer," by Malotte, during the morning service.

Butler Sees War Angle to U. S. Peace Invitation

ST. LOUIS, (Special)—Major Gen. Smedley D. Butler, a confirmed isolationist even before he retired from the marine corps six years ago, said in an interview here today that the United States would not have been asked to attend the coming conference on the Japanese-Chinese war in London were it not for the fact that because of its strength it would, if necessary, be asked to join in the war.

He suggested that all of the men participating in the conference be asked "to sign an agreement that they will go to front-line trenches as private soldiers in the event the conference leads to a world war."

SLOOP BACK IN FARM OFFICE

Kenneth D. Sloop, former insectary employee and agricultural inspector here, returned to the agricultural commissioner's office yesterday as deputy commissioner.

The appointment was made by Agricultural Commissioner D. W. Tubbs, following Sloop's resignation as field entomologist for the Los Angeles county agricultural commissioner's office.

"Because of his wide training and long experience," said Tubbs, "we are very happy to be able to return him to our personnel."

Sloop has worked intermittently in the local office since 1925, beginning as an employee in the insectary at Anaheim.

Enters Denial in Love Theft Case

Harry D. Zimmer, rancher, yesterday entered a general answer to a $30,000 alienation of affections suit brought against him in superior court by Orley Wright, Orange cordage factory worker.

Zimmer's answer, filed by Attorney S. B. Kaufman, denies that Zimmer stole the affections of Mrs. Wright, and denies that the Wrights have been husband and wife since last Dec. 28. Wright's complaint was filed Sept. 29 by Judge J. B. Tucker, Santa Ana attorney.

TUSTIN LOSES TAX BATTLE

Tustin High school district taxpayers must pay off their own bonds, as a result today of the state supreme court's ruling in favor of the Laguna Beach district on the Tustin demand for $70,000 in taxes.

The court's ruling Thursday affirmed an opinion given more than two years ago by Dist. Atty. W. F. Menton, who said the Laguna taxpayers were not liable for payments on the Tustin bonds after drawn from Tustin High school district.

The contract providing for withdrawal specified Laguna would be exempt from taxation on the bonds provided a high school district were established at Laguna within a year. The district was established, but Tustin contended payment should be made because no high school was built at Laguna within that time. The court ruled against Tustin, confirming a ruling by Superior Judge James L. Allen here.

SARGENT FACES PRISON TERM

Neal Sargent, former San Quentin convict, faced the prospect today of returning to the penitentiary's walls—because his knowledge and ability as a lawyer weren't enough to free him from burglary charges.

Sargent's pleading of his own case before a jury in Presiding Superior Judge H. G. Ames court did keep the seven women and five men out for two hours Thursday, however, before a verdict of guilty on second-degree burglary charges was brought in.

Sargent, who served a San Quentin term for robbery, told attorneys he had read law in the prison library. He attacked testimony of prosecution witnesses on cross-examination, and prevented Deputy District Attorney Harold McCabe from arguing to the jury by waiving his own right to argue. Judgment will be pronounced by Judge Ames Monday morning.

SANTA ANA CHURCHES WELCOME YOU SERMONETTE

(ON THIS WEEK'S CHURCH SCHOOL LESSON)

By Glenn L. Thorne

In the third chapter of Titus we find Paul giving some instruction relative to Christian living, especially the Christian's attitude toward authority. Authority and obedience are fundamental and essential in human society. Our world is built first upon God's sovereignty and man a dependent subject who owes obedience, and second upon a human society with certain group leadership having authority which must be respected and the group owes obedience. Ideal life is to live in conformity to these arrangements. This is life at its best, its greatest ease, its largest accomplishment.

When this arrangement is as it should be there is no autocracy and serfdom here, there is proper equality and cooperation. Neither equality nor cooperation excludes authority and obedience. But man, it seems, must be extreme. We have had autocracy and slavery in the past, and now we are having our dictators and socialists. Some boast that they have freed themselves from the authority of the church and now are trying to get free from the authority of the Bible. We talk cooperation such as weakens leadership and frees from obedience. We are appealing for a "better understanding" that gives youth its way and frees it from parental restraint. We are getting rid of the church and now are trying to get free from the authority of the Bible. We talk cooperation such as weakens leadership and frees from obedience. A Tribute to R. C. Harbison

(Guest Editorial by J. P. Baumgartner)

Your invitation to me to write a "Guest Editorial" about R. C. Harbison, whose death was announced yesterday, is welcomed as an opportunity to pay tribute to a fine newspaper man and a life-long loving and loved friend.

His career and mine were almost completely contemporaneous in the Southern California field of journalism; and much of the time during the last 40 years we were, in a manner of speaking, next door neighbors in that field. When Bob was a reporter in San Francisco, I was a reporter in San Diego, and when he began his struggle to put the San Bernardino Sun on its feet, I was struggling to get on my journalistic feet in Riverside.

In all the succeeding years, as I was learning the newspaper business by struggling with the publishing and journalistic problems of the Riverside Press, the Pasadena Star, the Long Beach Press and the Santa Ana Register, in succession, I derived inspiration and courage from the great success Bob was making of the Sun—and, to be perfectly frank about it, I could not help being mildly and admiringly envious of that success.

I have always maintained, and now assert, that the San Bernardino Sun was, and is, the best country newspaper of its class in this state—which means the best in any state. And the Sun was Bob Harbison.

He was not only an able newspaper man. He was also a fine man, an admirable and useful citizen, a faithful and loving friend. In his passing, Southern California journalism loses a shining light, and his family and hosts of friends lose something ever more dear—an irreparable loss of those attributes of mind and heart that alone make life worth living.

Alf Landon compares F. D. R. to Caesar. We all know that Caesar had his Brutus. Does Mr. Landon infer that someone is going to play Brutus to the President?

Prepare Against 'Incidents'

The best kind of preparedness these days for the United States is for each citizen to be prepared against "incidents" which may happen at any time in a war-mad world.

Chiefest of the "incidents" which aroused this nation to fighting fury ahead of its entrance into the World war was the sinking of the steamship Lusitania on Friday, May 7, 1915.

American lives totaling 144 were lost on the Lusitania. The ship itself was owned by the Cunard company, a British concern.

Most recent estimates are that this nation's total outlays for war purposes from 1917 to 1921 topped $43,000,000,000, and that each year since then has added another three billion to the figure. Deaths directly attributable to that war now number 170,000; those receiving disability allowances number 260,000.

A terrible price to pay for an "incident" created by insistence on the American's right to travel through a war zone on ships owned by one of the warring nations.

Remember back in the old days when every election wasn't called a New Deal test?

Oh, Doctor, How Could You?

We like beautiful women as well as anyone, and if it takes a little powder to make a homely gal as good looking as Helen of Troy—why, more powder to her.

But the words of Dr. Haven Emerson, director of public health of the College of Physicians and Surgeons at New York, make us wonder—

As one looks about at the cadaveric finger tips, the enameled toe-nails, the deformed eyebrows, the filled facial creases that try to reveal character but are cheated out of it, the hectic cheeks reminiscent of the fever ward of a tuberculosis hospital, the ill-assorted daubs of albine upon the lips, one wonders if it is worth the while of the congress to try to enact protective legislation, or health officers and their laboratories to attempt enforcement of local ordinances to save a beauty-mad generation from those qualities of cosmetics that threaten to replace the bloom of health with one more appropriate to a dish of wax fruit.

The Doc probably is taking the situation too seriously. There are a lot of names more appropriate than "dish of waxed fruit" for the dear ladies who freshen themselves up a bit with powder and paint.

Many of the intellectual pacifists of the 1920's seem to be practicing on the bugle.

Oh, Those Flies!

"I wonder where in the world all those flies come from!"

Any husband who has not heard these words this fall may congratulate himself that his house is as tight as an oven, without chink or crack or blemish.

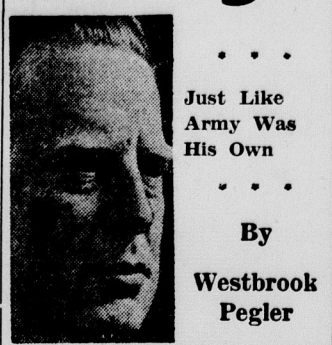

The flies, dear ladies, come, at this time of year, through cracks under doors, chinks between bricks, around water pipes, under shingles into the attic, down flues leading to fireplaces.

This is the time of year when the fly must find shelter or cease to exist. Enough of him find shelter to assure next year's crop, invariably.

His apparent easy access to your home as a refuge against the frosts of winter does not mean necessarily that the old homestead is coming apart, but rather that he, the fly, is a forward and resourceful pest obeying the law of self-preservation.

Japan is too busy breaking the Nine Power treaty to take time out for talking about it.

FAIR Enough

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—It may be hard to believe, but Robert Quinn, governor of Rhode Island, a state of the American union, has called out the national guard to execute his personal reprisal against the publisher of a paper which called him a swear-word liar in print.

The soldiers, 300 strong at first but reduced to about 50 of this writing, are maintaining nominal martial law in the vicinity of the Narragansett race track, operated by a cunning and audacious little promoter from Massachusetts named Walter O'Hara, who prospered so highly in the horse business that he jumped into Rhode Island politics and bought a newspaper with which to advance his political program.

Mr. O'Hara apparently wants to become the political boss of the state, which, though small, is very rich and likewise very corrupt. He easily captured the municipal administration of Pawtucket, where the horse park lies.

Knowing this, Governor Quinn was afraid the local police might attack the state police if he moved them in to close the race track in retaliation for the published insult. But he was determined to punish O'Hara, whom he described in a radio address as "an unscrupulous and ruthless individual," so he invoked the authority of his office to declare martial law and send in the soldiers. He says he figures that if he keeps the track closed until November 11, the last day of the scheduled season, O'Hara will be out so much money that he will lose his paper and possibly control of the track as well.

FREEDOM OF PRESS

There are five charges in the complaint against O'Hara. They accuse him of embezzlement, misuse of horses' funds, interference with the racing authorities, obstruction of the auditors and "blasphemous and libelous attacks upon the governor." The last item is the one which brings into issue the freedom of the press, and Governor Quinn frankly says that though his political career be ruined he will not permit the track to operate as long as it is controlled by the man who called him a swear-word liar.

Of course, the personal and political enmity amounts to more than just that. The governor also says he has received threats against his children from persons whom he associates with the race track; he says two justices of the state supreme court are partial to the horse park faction, and he insists that O'Hara's paper is of such a character as to deserve no sympathy from those who cherish the freedom of the printed word.

And it is, in very truth, an unconventional paper, a throw-back to the days of personal journalism when the editor kept a sixer in the half-open drawer of his desk and governors who took offense went down to the shop and did their shelling in person, scorning the services of the national guard. It does not express the noblest instincts of the profession, and journalists priding themselves on their ethics and taste might regret an occurrence which, for the defense of an important principle, places them on the same side of the barricade with Mr. O'Hara.

NOT HUEY'S TYPE

Governor Quinn, however, need not be viewed with alarm as a successor to Huey P. Long, for he is distinctly not the type. He makes a very bad speech, he jacks Huey's shocking effrontery and ingenuity in argument, he is not given to showmanship or swaggering, and his predicament boils down to the simple fact that a very exasperating enemy has driven him to a foolish act. His racing commission, which has authority over the horse park, sustained the charges against O'Hara and rescinded his license, but on O'Hara's appeal the state supreme court reversed this action on a technicality without going into the merits of the accusations.

The law requires, however, that the track operators must file with the commission 10 days before the start of a meeting the names of the racing officials for that meet, and this O'Hara failed to do, because the supreme court decision on the original suspension was not delivered until the deadline had passed. So, technically, that is the reason for the closing of the track by force of arms, although the governor admits that O'Hara himself is the real objection, and the complaint lists as his offenses a published affront to him.

Horse racing was legalized in Rhode Island in 1934 for the first time in the history of one of the oldest states and has been a source of virulent political infection.

Not only have the usual following of underworld talent flocked into Rhode Island but an enterprising always previously regarded as a vice and tolerated only as a source of necessary public revenue

I'll Tell You
By BOB BURNS

I don't believe there's any such thing as a person wastin' his time. Sometimes we get discouraged when the day comes to a close and we haven't anything substantial to show for it, but if you'll just be patient, you'll find that something you did or thought or saw that day is gonna come in handy later on.

We use'ta think my Cousin Pernel was gonna be a failure in life because he spent so much of his time with his personal appearance, but we never dreamed that his duds ways was just fittin' him out for his future career. When he became a man, he went up to St. Louis and he was right to the swankiest shoe store in town and asked the sales manager for a job. The sales manager says, "Do you know anything much about shoes?" and my Cousin Pernel says, "Well, I ought to—I been wearin' 'em every Sunday for two years."

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD
A little boy came home from school and told his mother that the teacher had called him a "securv elephant."

The mother confronted the teacher the next morning and demanded an explanation. The teacher indignantly denied the accusation—that she had never called the little boy such a name; had never associated those two words in her mind, even. It was all a mistake, then, remembering that the little chap had been very mischievous that day, she had, in reproving him, called him "a disturbing element."

has acquired so much money and such an arrogant feeling of political muscle that it now threatens to subdue all decency and convert the little state into a northern Miami, with horse rooms and gambling houses on every highway and more or less candid grafters in many public offices.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—The quiet struggle between Herbert Hoover and Alf M. Landon for leadership of the Republican party will come to a head at the special meeting of the National committee in Chicago next month, with GOP moguls sharply divided into opposing groups.

As the party's last presidential candidate, Landon is the titular leader until his 1940 convention. Disregarding this tradition, Hoover is trying to grab off the leadership during the next few years. Landon doesn't intend to let him. That is the story in a nutshell.

The Chicago meeting actually was called by John Hamilton, handsome, marcel-haired national chairman. But Herbert Hoover was the real instigator. He has made the unprecedented proposal of a mid-term convention to formulate a "declaration of principles" on which the GOP could stage a comeback.

In other words, Hoover would have the party write a platform for next year's congressional elections, rather than wait for 1940 to form a new policy.

This has aroused sharp division among GOP moguls. Their line-up on the point is about like this:

Favoring Mid-Term Convention—Herbert Hoover, John Hamilton, Bert Shell, House Floor Leader; Senator Townsend (Del.), Chairman Campaign Committee.

Opposed to Mid-Term Convention—Alf Landon, Senator Borah, Charles McNary, senate floor leader; Representative Joe Martin, house floor leader; Representative Hamilton Fish.

HOOPER POSITION
Reason for opposition to the Hoover idea is obvious. A Republican platform would put Republican candidates in a political strait-jacket. Their best tactics in these days of Roosevelt popularity is to pussyfoot on the New Deal. In some districts the less they attack Roosevelt, the better off they are.

Most irked over the Hoover mid-term convention idea is ex-Governor Alf Landon. He has two counts against it:

1. Any party platform pie into which Herbert Hoover puts a finger would be too conservative. Landon doesn't think that delegates selected for conventions in 1932 and 1936 are in tune with the times; that anything they draft would be a liability, not an asset.

The local politicians who have to face the music in 1938 should write their own scores, argued Landon.

2. He also views Hoover's move as a canny scheme to push him into the background, then become the big shot of the Grand Old Party.

This does not necessarily mean that Landon harbors hopes for another try at the presidency. His close friends say he has no such ambition. But in any case he does not intend to allow Hoover, if he can help it, to elbow him off the driver's seat.

Landon proposes to remain titular leader of the party in fact as well as in name, at least until the regular convention in 1940. Furthermore, he is determined to have a big voice in what that convention does.

LANDON PLAN
What will be the outcome of this inner struggle only time will tell.

Both champions have powerful support. Landon is the ablest tactician and is far more popular among the GOP rank-and-file than Hoover. In fact, the president's biggest handicap is his lack of goodwill in the ranks. On the other hand, he has the very important advantage of a close-knit and aggressive organization quietly built up in the last year.

To offset this, and to snatch the initiative from his rival, Landon has proposed a counter plan to replace the mid-term convention.

This calls for the establishment of a policy committee, or sort of High Command, consisting of Landon, Hoover, Colonel Frank Knox, and Senators McNary, Borah and Vandenberg. While this group is not particularly pro-Landon; on the other hand it is emphatically anti-Hoover. In fact, the only sure pro-Hoover man on it is Hoover himself.

Under Landon's formula, Hoover would be given the sop of a place in an inner council, but he wouldn't be THE inner council.

HAMILTON OUSTER

Entangled in the tug o' war is the fate of National Chairman Hamilton.

Landon, Knox, most of the congressional leaders would like to vigorously push the convention plan—a maneuver that has not improved his standing either with Landon or the congressional chiefs.

Last week a movement suddenly broke into the open to replace Hamilton with Landon. The exact source of this idea is clouded in mystery. Landon's friends say he has nothing to do with it, that he would not take the job, as it would be a distinct step-down.

Some GOPers say Senator Vandenberg threw the chairmanship at Landon as a move to undermine Hoover and strengthen his own presidential ambitions. As National Chairman, Landon would be definitely out of the 1940 picture.

Hamilton will not walk the plank at the Chicago meeting. But what happens in the joust between Hoover and Landon will determine in a large measure how much longer he holds on to his cushy job.

STOCK

Lillian Tyler tells about a couple of green traders sitting around in her firm's board room.

"Terrible about these labor troubles," said the first.

"That's right," replied the other, nodding sagely.

"Affects stocks, too," the first fellow said, and again he got that nod and the wise look. "What do you think of the CIO?" he asked his friend.

The other fellow put a hand on his knee, looked him in the eye, and put on a significant expression. "I think I'll close lower," he answered. —Investment Dealers Digest!

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent fair discussion of our problems is immensely useful. So that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion, The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

STAY OUT OF WAR

To the Editor: When Christopher Columbus set sail in 1492, he never once dreamed of finding a new world, but stranger than fiction he found a new continent. Thinking the world was round, he set sail to blaze a new route to India.

Columbus was right in his day. The world was and still is round. This is 1937. The present situation as it appears to be, seems flat.

Turmoil and strife on every hand; people being killed by drunken or by the carelessness of some driver. At times we wonder, ponder to think whether or not the world is round.

If we would tend to our own situations we would have all the work we need to do. Let the Chinese and Japanese question settle itself, because, after all, there is where it had its beginning.

The American youth does not want war. Why should we have to lay down our lives for our country when it could have been prevented. "No, we don't want war."

If the politicians and leaders of our country would tend to the interests in these United States as well as they howl about the situations in foreign countries the United States budget would be balanced.

The youth can not get work because the aliens and foreign people hold the jobs. If this was remedied the men and boys could get work without very much difficulty.

So think of the American youth and stay out of war. After all, they will be the men and women of tomorrow.

HOW OLD IS ANN?

To the Editor: In regard to your question, "How Old Is Ann," in the editorial column of the Oct. 21 edition, I would like to submit the answer for your approval and claim the sugar bun prize as offered.

The question: Mary is 24 years old. She is twice as old as Ann was when she was as old as Ann is now. How old is Ann?

The answer: Mary is now 24. Ann is now 18, because when Mary was as old as Ann is now which is 18, that would make Ann 12 years old which is half of 24. In other words, Mary is now 24 which would make her twice as old as Ann was when Ann was 12. When Ann was 12 that would make Mary 18, so Ann is now 18.

I dare you to dispute this.

GEO. L. YOUNG.

APPLAUSE FOR BULL

To the Editor: It was a great stroke of The Journal to line up this outstanding authority, Prof. C. de Corn, to master-mind for you readers on the highly important and exciting subject of economics. Most newspapers have some such expert among their writers, so you are right in the van of progress.

The lessons Prof. C. de Corn derived from the story of Ferdinand were profound and illuminating. One part, however, was neglected. That is, there was not just one bull in that book. There were many bulls, you recall. Just like economics in general and economics—bull after bull! And most of them sitting down to smell the flowers. Give us more "Smelling the Good Things of Life."

ADMIRER OF FERDINAND.

ANN IS 18

To the Editor: In regard to your query "How Old Is Ann?" my answer is 18 years.

Six years ago Mary was 18 which is Ann's age now. And at that time Ann was 12 which is half of Mary's present age, I believe.

I am certain this is the correct answer, so how about the sugar bun? FRED TITENSOR, 213 Lacy St., Santa Ana.

Editor's note: If Mr. Titensor will come to The Journal office I will be glad to buy him a sugar bun and a cup of coffee to boot.)

SWAP COLUMN

Will exchange two auto fenders with permanent waves for new set of brake lining.—Joe Bungstater.

While business is on the up-grade, a lot of sand is needed to keep the wheels from slipping.

Who says educational standards aren't improving? We observe that speeches made by university presidents at the opening of college this fall were little, if any, worse than those delivered last commencement season.

Some of our more conservative statesmen are bewailing the fact that there is a spirit of unrest in our midst. And we know who are doing the unresting. Nobody but the people.

WHIMSIES

NEW YORK.—All great thinkers need solitude. And I have a swell hunk of it today—everybody is away. Any moment now I'm likely to begin drooping into one of my pensive moments. Wonder whatever became of that Kodak snapshot of me on a rock at Catalina, gazing out to sea?

With chin cupped in my hand, hair a bit tousled, and that far-away look in my soft brown eyes, you'd scarcely think I was of this world. So ethereal. What a sucker Pirie MacDonald is not to catch my profile for his sidewalk cabinet. He'd do a turn-away business.

Wish I could think up something dandy to moon about, now that I'm all alone. I'm tired of that old one about the state of the empire. Oh, yes, a lot of people are being picked on in the late-ly. For instance, that old polican at dinner last night, with the lorgnette.

Rebuking me before all those people for splitting an infinitive. That is what the lorgnette likely is for. Just to snoop through the newspapers and see what poor dub has misplaced a whom, doubled a negative or scrambled a metaphor. Fine little hobby, that!

Still, I must not let myself sag and get too dour. We Scots often grow so morose we just sit sulking for days. The last time I put on a protracted pout was when my wife refused to go to a Walter Chrysler, jet cocktail party with me unless I switched from a yellow and green striped shirt for something in white. For two days I just sat at a window looking out on a bleak roof-top, nibbling only a graham wafer or so and faking a Camille-in-the-lake-catch cough when anyone came in the room. It would wring your heart to see the sad little wisp of a smile I can stage in an emergency. One of those don't-mind-me-I-won't-be-here-much-longer anyway things.

But my brooding never gets anywhere. About the time I think I'll have everybody on their knees with crying towels, somebody barges in and organizes a party to go out ringing door-bells or the like. And off they go, laughing and singing "Good-bye Sourpuss, have a good time with your miseries!" or something un-funny such as that.

Maybe I should try to be gay when left alone. One of the Happiness Boys. Wait, I'll turn on the radio. There's a rousing, blood-pumping tune. Nothing like a zippy march to stir up the liver and jack up the spirits. Chin up, shoulders back. I'll make out I'm just home from the wars, Approaching the triumphal arch. The cheering hero! Here I go past the reviewing stand. The governor and the grand marshal standing at salute. Steady now, don't trip into one of those running falls. Look at the showers of confetti. Boy, is this a welcome home! Don't say anything now, let's make that quick turn in the front hall. I seemed to have wrenched my hip. Sounded to me as though something snapped. That would be my luck. Trying to be all merry and bright and zip goes a puckering string!

But it will serve them right for leaving me alone. I hope when they get back the ambulance will be out front and they'll be carrying me out, wan and white-faced, on a stretcher. Don't anybody mind me. I trust all of you have had a glorious day of gaiety. Oh, it's nothing—just a slight touch of broken hip. I'll be home in six weeks or so. And in a year I'll be as good as ever. Pat the dog for me every day. It's no hardship to be plastered up in a cast and not be able to move. Suffering is my dish. I love it. Any way I'll be out of the way. Nobody to fall over or shoo at. One less mouth to feed. Good-bye and bless each one of you. Drive on ambulance. And don't mind the bumps!

I guess it was just what grandma calls a crick in the back, after all. Right where my galluses hinged. But I've had my fill of marching for the winter. I wish they'd come on home. Silly, of course, but it seems to me there is a funny noise in that bedroom closet. It couldn't be mice. I might ring for the elevator and have it while I take a quick peek. You know, zing, zing and buckity buckity. And should you be in outer hall, and see a pair of pants and coat flying toward the elevator don't try to stop them for I'll be inside. And you will know I took that quick peek and something moved.
